Debate Sets Off Shock Waves

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — President Ford and Jimmy Carter have set off shock waves among politicians and diplomats with their second campaign debate. Among voters, the audience that really counts, an Associated Press poll today gave Carter a narrow edge.

Ford's pronouncements on Eastern Europe and the Arab boycott, and a hard line by Democrat Carter on the Panama Canal Zone, stirred instant controversy. At the same time, the debate thrust foreign and defense policy to the forefront in the presidential campaign.

The 90-minute debate was livelier than the first encounter between the Republican President and his challenger. Both were more aggressive this time. Each attacked his opponent more freely, dropping much of the restraint and studied politeness that had marked their first confrontation.

The AP telephone survey of 1,071 registered voters was conducted immediately after the debate Wednesday night. It showed 38.2 per cent thought Carter had won, 34.6 per cent rated Ford the victor, and the rest called it a tie or said they didn't know who won.

The theoretical margin of error for a sample of this size is about 2.9 per cent in either direction if the results are projected to reflect the reaction of the entire debate audience.

So neither man was a clearcut winner. By similar margins, Ford gained the advantage in an identical survey after the first debate, two weeks ago.

The AP poll was conducted by Chilton Research Services of Radnor, Pa.

Highlighted by sharp differences on details but broad agreement on the objectives of foreign and defense policy, the debate no sooner had ended than both candidates said they thought they had done well.

"I think I won and I'm sure he feels the same way," Carter said as he left the ornate Palace of Fine Arts, site of the nationally televised debate. Carter said he had rated the first debate a tie "but I feel better about this one."

"I think we did all right," said Ford. Both men had the same reaction after their first encounter two weeks ago in Philadelphia.

The third and final debate between the two presidential candidates is scheduled for Oct. 22, in Williamsburg, Va. On Oct. 15, their vice presidential running mates, Sens. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and Bob Dole, R-Kans., will debate, most likely in Houston.

The Associated Press poll that followed the first debate concluded that Ford picked up some support. The first debate covered domestic and economic policy.

In their second encounter, neither candidate seemed as nervous at the outset. Each hit hard at the other's recommendations of ways to maintain American strength throughout the world while pursuing a foreign policy with moral as well as practical objectives.

"I treated Mr. Ford more as an equal," Carter said. "I think in the first debate, I deferred too much to him because he was President."

Ford, however, was able to use his incumbency to make two surprise announcements of international significance: He said the United States has received signals from the Soviet Union of its readiness to narrow differences and shape "a realistic and sound compromise" for a new agreement to limit strategic nuclear weapons; and he said the administration will disclose the names of American firms that have participated in the Arab boycott against Israel.

But the President also may have created a campaign issue in an unexpected area when he said, "There is no Soviet domination of Eastern Europe and there never will be under a Ford administration."

Ford was asked by panelist Max Frankel of the New York Times if he meant to say that the Russians were not using Eastern Europe as "their own sphere of influence" and were not making certain "with their troops that it's a Communist zone."

The President replied: "I don't believe, Mr. Frankel, that the Yugoslavians consider themselves dominated by the Soviet Union. I don't believe the Romanians consider themselves dominated by the Soviet Union. I don't believe that the Poles consider themselves dominated by the Soviet Union. Each of these countries is independent, autonomous."

After the debate, Brent D. Scowcroft, White House national security adviser, was asked by reporters if the Soviets had troops stationed in Poland.

"Yes," he replied. Asked how many, Scowcroft said he didn't recall and then said it might be four divisions. Then Scowcroft added, "I think what the President wanted to say is that we don't recognize Soviet domination of Eastern Europe."

Dr. Lev E. Dobrianski, chairman of the National Captive Nations Committee, said, "I was shocked to hear President Ford state and even try to defend his preposterous statement that there is no Soviet domination over Eastern Europe."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, who is of Polish descent, also responded quickly, saying he was "disappointed that President Ford chose to dismiss the human rights of millions of people in Eastern Europe."

TOP HAT AND CLARINET — The memorabilia of the late Ted Lewis has arrived. Immediately rushed off to the Second National Bank vault were Lewis' clarinet and his original top hat considered priceless by members of Ted Lewis Museum Inc. and the Pickaway County Historical

Carter Proves Aggressive Debater

WASHINGTON (AP) — This time they came out swinging, and Jimmy Carter swung harder — on the very issues President Ford had chosen. The voters will decide how many punches landed.

While the final impact will only come clear in an election 26 days away, it was evident that in the second of the presidential campaign debates, Democrat Carter was on the offensive. President Ford did his share of slugging, too, in a San Francisco rematch that was far more heated and contentious than the leadoff debate.

They meet once more, on Oct. 22, in a debate that is not limited as to subject. That one, perhaps, will get to the topics people are talking about, things like Earl L. Butz and racial slurs; Carter, Playboy and secret lusts; the still unsettled inquiry into Republican campaign finances in Ford's old congressional district.

Those matters have not come up in the opening debates, under ground rules that limited the subject matter. In San Francisco on Wednesday night, the agenda was foreign policy and defense. Ford had wanted those topics debated first, since he considered them his strong points. Instead, the leadoff debate two weeks ago was on domestic affairs and the economy — supposedly heavy issues for Carter. Ironically, Ford came out of the Philadelphia debate with added strength and Carter made a debater's comeback in San Francisco.

An Associated Press survey showed Carter gained a narrow edge in Wednesday night's debate in the eyes of the voters. A similar poll had rated Ford slightly ahead in the first debate.

In San Francisco, while Ford boasted of peace, performance and experience in foreign and security affairs, he was cast as the candidate with a record to defend. He did so.

He also used the powers of his office to disclose a hint of possible opening toward progress in the stalemated negotiations with Moscow for a new strategic arms limitation agreement, and to announce that the administration will publish today a list of U.S. firms that have participated in the Arab boycott aimed against Israel.

While incumbency worked to Ford's advantage on those points, Carter made maximum use of his role as challenger.

For him, there were no inhibitions born of the need to defend current policies. Almost every answer carried a built-in challenge, another slap at administration policies he called horrible, immoral, overly secretive and unsuccessful.

He said Secretary of State Henry A.

Kissinger "has been the president of this country" in foreign affairs.

In fact, the language with which he keynoted his denunciation of Republican foreign policy could well serve as a capsule review of the debate:

"... Almost all style and spectacle and not substance."

Once again, the candidates generally restated positions already taken, although this time there were nuggets of new information, as on the SALT talks, the boycott list, and Carter's insistence on continuing U.S. control of the Panama Canal Zone for the foreseeable future.

There also were misstatements, notably Ford's claim that there is no Soviet domination in Eastern Europe. Not even his own national security adviser could second that.

During the debate, Ford defended that statement, saying he did not think Yugoslavia, Romania or Poland considered themselves dominated by Russia. He said they are independent and autonomous.

Carter said Ford would have a hard

Public Utilities Board Makes Sewer Offers

The Board of Public Utilities met Wednesday evening in the Water Department offices on Franklin Street. The purpose of the meeting was to secure easements for the sanitary sewer interceptor line from Ted Lewis Park.

Board member Harold Clifton made the following motion:

That the Board of Public Utilities make an offer of $1 to LaVern Wills and an offer of $1 to the Circleville-Pickaway Corporation for an easement through their properties; that the offers be given in the form of a letter to Wills and the Circleville-Pickaway Corporation; and that the easements must be signed and returned to Public Utilities Director Chuck Taylor's office by 12 noon on Tuesday, Oct. 12.

After the motion was seconded, Board member Dr. John Bowers voted in favor of the motion, and board member David Yates abstained from voting, stating that he was a stockholder in the Circleville-Pickaway Corporation.

With the easements being the only item on the agenda, the meeting was adjourned at 8:45 p.m.

Weather

Cloudy and cooler with showers or thundershowers likely today tonight and Friday. High today will be near 60, tonight's low in the middle 40s and Friday's temperatures will be near 60. Chance of precipitation, 70 per cent today and tonight and 50 per cent Friday. High Wednesday was 64 with a low during the night of 48.

'See How They Run' Is Laugh-Filled Comedy Hit

and Twana Moats. In the back row are Mike Alkire, Wallace Higgins, Frank McKay, and Bill McIntyre.

By DAVE AMEY
Herald City Editor

Twana Moats heads a cast of characters whose performances are well worth the price of admission alone.

And when her Roundtown Players associates team up to relive Philip King's hilarious "See How They Run," audiences definitely receive more than they bargained for.

Wednesday's dress rehearsal by the Players was a tight, well-staged production that kept a special Memorial Hall audience laughing throughout the three acts.

The play will open tonight at 8:30 p.m. and will be staged Friday and Saturday.

Miss Moats, using a chirpy voice and professional-quality talents, captures chuckles with nearly every word as Miss Skillion, a busy-body who gets trapped in the darndest situations.

A speech and theater teacher at Logan Elm High School, she is appearing in her second Roundtown production and is a leading candidate for her second Audience Appreciation Award.

The award, given to the three cast members whose performances are best-liked by the audience, should be a toss-up between the remainder of the fine, well-balanced cast.

Diane Berger gives an excellent performance as the cockney maid, Ida, projecting her humor into one of the few comedic roles she has portrayed for the Players.

Jerry Wexler handles the role of the flighty Rev. Lionel Toop with style and imagination as he tries to determine who is running where and why.

A Roundtown Players' newcomer, Bridget Haines, is excellent as Penelope Toop, wife of the Vicar and perpetrator of the hilarious night of comedy.

And veteran Steve Stevenson projects his energetic personality into the role of Corporal Clive Winton, a funny fellow who begins and finished the night's activities.

Mike Alkire, playing an escaped Russian spy, also adds humor to the production, and carries out many of the technically-difficult parts with ease.

Another "star" is Wallace Higgins, who grabs plenty of laughs as the stodgy Bishop of Lax. Higgins, a teacher at the Circleville High School, is able to show his amazement at the night's activities with a wonderfully humorous outlook.

Frank McKay, challenged with one of the hardest performances in the play, is outstanding as The Rev. Arthur Humphrey, adding a funny frailty to the astonished Vicar.

McKay's versatility is amazing. He assumed the role several weeks before the production deadline, filling in for an injured cast member. However, he will not be playing Humphrey Friday due to a business commitment, and that task will fall to Steve Thomerson, Roundtown Player's president.

Bill McIntyre also gives a solid performance as Sergeant Towers, the man who eventually is abot to sort out the Vicars.

Special commendation must be given to committees who constructed and decorated the marvelous set for the play.

Marsha Davis is the director, Larry Blum is assistant director, and Barb Alkire is production coordinator.

The play, set in England during the 1948 Berlin Airlift, captures the essence of the time while poking fun at people of all time.

The plot centers around relationships between The Rev. Toop, his wife, and the rest of the characters.

Slapstick antics continue during the night as all parties try to hide their identities and then convince authorities they are who they claim to be.

Ruckelshaus Gets Course On Trees

FEDERAL WAY, Wash. (AP) — William Ruckelshaus is learning all about trees.

The first director of the Environmental Protection Agency, onetime acting director of the FBI and former U.S. deputy attorney general has begun duties as a senior vice president of the Weyerhaeuser Co.

Weyerhaeuser says it owns more trees than any other forest products company in the nation.

Ruckelshaus was deputy attorney general to Elliot Richardson, and was ousted, like Richardson, on Oct. 20, 1973, in what has become known as the "Saturday Night Massacre."

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pushed ahead today in a continuation of Wednesday's late technical upturn.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose about a point in the early going. Gainers took a 2-1 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Trading was brisk. Brokers noted a carryover of buy orders from the last half hour Wednesday, when the market recovered part of a sharp earlier loss.

But they pointed out that Wall Street had to contend this morning with the government's report of a larger-than-expected 0.9 per cent rise in its whole-sale price index last month.

Today's early volume leader was Ward Foods, unchanged at 6 in a 173,700-share block trade.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 7.07 to a four-month low of 959.69. That extended the average's loss for the past seven trading days to 53.44 points.

Declines outnumbered advances by a 2-1 margin at the NYSE, and the exchange's composite index lost .16 to 55.04.

Big Board volume totaled 20.87 million shares.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index dropped .63 to 99.93.

Social Security Bite To Increase For Many Workers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nineteen million Americans will have to pay up to $70.20 more in Social Security taxes next year because the Social Security system is raising the maximum earnings subject to the tax from $15,300 to $16,500.

That will raise a person's maximum Social Security tax from $895.95 this year to $965.25 next year. An estimated 19 million workers will earn more than $15,300 next year and of that group, 16 million will earn $16,500 or more.

The maximum Social Security tax on the self-employed will rise to $1,303.50 next year, compared with the maximum $1,208.70 this year.

The higher rates go into effect Jan. 1. The government has good news for retirees. About 1.3 million Social Security retirees will be able to earn $3,000 next year without reducing the size of their Social Security checks. The limit this year is $2,760.

After earning $3,000, they then will lose $1 in Social Security benefits for every $2 in outside income. Their Social Security checks will not be reduced in any month in which outside earnings do not exceed $250, however.

The increase in the taxable wage base will produce an additional $2.3 billion for Social Security next year.

Social Security Commissioner James B. Cardwell said the increase was required by law to keep pace with the rise in average wages. The increase in tax revenue can occur only after a year in which there was an automatic increase in Social Security benefits. Benefits rose 6.4 per cent earlier this year.

The Social Security tax rate of 5.85 per cent each on employees and employers will not change next year. That means a person earning less than $15,300 this year and next year will not be affected by the higher wage base.

"In return for the increase in taxes," Cardwell said, "these affected workers will have greater protection because a larger amount of their earnings will be credited toward benefits than before."

The maximum Social Security tax was just $30 a year between 1937 and 1949 and then climbed slowly to $174 in 1963. With the advent of Medicare for the aged and, more recently, for the disabled, the maximum tax shot up to $277.20 in 1966.

Since then, the maximum tax has increased to $290.40 in 1967, $343.20 in 1968, $374.40 in 1969 and 1970, $405.60 in 1971, $468 in 1972, $631.80 in 1973, $772.20 in 1974, $824.85 in 1975 and $895.05 this year.

Pump Damaged When Water Discovered

A thief, who found water instead of gasoline in an underground tank, turned vandal and destroyed the pump mechanism, according to Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies.

However, deputies believe the same person took over $300 worth of merchandise from a nearby garage.

The incident occurred on Winstead Road property owned by Thomas Boyer, 11880 Wyandotte Road, Stoutsville, between 7 p.m. Wednesday and 5:05 a.m. Thursday.

Deputies found that a hammer was used to break the lock off an underground storage tank. However, the thief apparently became upset when he found water instead of gasoline in the tank and destroyed the pump.

Tools and a four-inch belt sander were taken from a nearby garage, however, after the padlock was broken off the door hasp.

High-Risk Births Fought By Organization

NEW YORK (AP) — For mothers-to-be, a kind of "search out and save" program is spreading throughout the country.

It seeks to find women facing high risk of complications at birth, and send them to the best-equipped and best-trained centers for delivery and then postnatal care of mother and baby.

Ninety per cent of births are quite normal, uncomplicated events, specialists emphasize. But sudden emergencies can occur. Some women are at high risk because of diabetes, toxemia of pregnancy, or other conditions. Some didn't have good prenatal care, had poor diets, or were addicted to drugs or alcohol. Premature births can mean a fight to save the baby's life.

Saving such women from heartbreak or even death for their babies or themselves is the objective of regional development of obstetric care. It draws more meaning from the fact that 16 other countries have a lower infant death rate than the United States.

The concept calls for coordinating three "levels" of hospitals or centers within a region, or state. Each level would provide high quality care, but "the degree of complexity of patient needs determines where, and by whom, the care should be provided," says a report urging wider adoption of regional plans. A few states are already practicing it — Wisconsin, Mississippi, Arizona, Colorado and North Carolina.

Level One hospitals would provide service primarily for uncomplicated births, and be alert for earliest detection of high-risk cases. It also would provide competent emergency care.

Level Two units would be located in larger urban and suburban hospitals where the majority of deliveries occur. They would provide a full range of services for uncomplicated births and the majority of complicated ones.

Level Three units would receive the most complicated cases, and operate highly expensive intensive care units for mothers and infants.

A new report recommending widespread regional development, published by the National Foundation — March of Dimes, has come from a three-year study by a Committee on Perinatal Health. This committee was composed of representatives of the American Academy of Family Physicians, American Academy of Pediatrics, American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, and the American Medical Association.

Many studies indicate that death and sickness rates of mothers and babies can be reduced if high-risk women are found early, and the best techniques of care then are supplied, the report says.

A key to effective regionalization is moving high-risk women or their babies to hospitals able to provide the care they need, says Dr. Perry Henderson, acting director of the perinatal program in the south-central region of Wisconsin. That state has had a regional program, with the state divided into six regions, for five years.

An aphorism among obstetricians is that "the uterus is the best transportation incubator," Henderson says, and the ideal is to diagnose high-risk women early enough to take them to specialized centers. If premature labor threatens, a hospital is needed that has an intensive care unit for premature infants.

In Wisconsin, most women can be taken by ambulance to a center within an hour or two, Henderson says. Madison, home of the University of Wisconsin where Henderson is professor of obstetrics and gynecology, has a specialized center, and 50 to 75 per cent of women treated there come from outside the city.

Henderson sees regional care as a coming practice, but one for which some doctors, in long practice in their own communities, may still need some convincing as to its value.

In another effect toward making childbirth safer and happier, the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation is giving five-year grants to eight medical centers for demonstration projects to assist in regionalizing perinatal care, meaning the periods shortly before and after birth.

Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons has one of the eight, called the Western and Upper Manhattan Perinatal Network. It includes Central Harlem where the infant death rate has been approximately two times that of the city and nation, says Alan M. Sear, director of the program's administrative control section.

Black women become disproportionately a high risk because of social, nutritional and medical problems, Sear says.

Part of the program is an outreach and follow-up effort to try to bring all high-risk mothers and infants into adequate health services, for intensified care before and following birth. It tries to encourage all pregnant women to seek care within 90 days of becoming pregnant, then assure them continuing medical supervision.

Regional programs may help remedy the unhappy fact that the United States ranks 17th in infant death rate, as reported by the United Nations. Sweden had the lowest rate — of 9.6 deaths per 1,000 live births in 1974. In the United States it is 16.7 per 1,000 now.

A Page Of Opinion

Solar Energy Focus

Beginning with the Arab oil embargo and continuing to the present, a number of people — energy expert and layman alike — have been talking up solar energy as the ultimate answer. Much of their enthusiasm gives the impression solar energy is a new science only recently given serious consideration. Egyptians harnessed the sun to a limited extent nearly 3,000 years ago and the Greeks followed their example a few centuries later. The great abundance of natural energy sources and fuels on this planet precluded the further evolution of solar energy until now. Whether the development of solar energy into inexpensive, efficient and useful components will be a lengthy process or one which will develop rapidly is a matter of speculation, but some inkling of its development could come within the next year. Five years ago Congress approved less than $2 million for solar research. For fiscal 1977, more than $290 million has been approved. Part of those funds will go into the creation of a Solar Energy Research Institute, scheduled to get underway later this year under the auspices of the Energy Research and Development Administration. Establishing a new agency does not in itself guarantee success, but it does signal a new purpose and will provide an important sounding board for ideas. There will be many of those in the years ahead; that much is certain.

High Jean Blues

By PHYLLIS BATTLE
NEW YORK — I was to take my 14-year-old son to an event in the city last week, and of course he was wearing blue jeans. Fourteen-year-olds, and everyone aged within a decade on either side of 14, wear jeans, the whole jeans and nothing but jeans. "Those pants look too rotten for the city," I mentioned politely. "We'd better stop on the way and get you a new pair."

asked, and the salesgirl dug into the racks. What she came out with was a new pair of denims which looked exactly like the ones he was wearing — faded, wrinkled at seams and hem, with that fashionable idiosyncrasy, that ineffable quality of looking soggy without even being damp. The only difference between the new jeans and the old was the price ($18.50 for the new, $12 last spring for the old), and a truly distinctive addition... green thread had been artfully embroidered into the new jeans, to give the wearer simulated, man-made grass stains.

So we rejected the pants, Jon agreeing that non-organic stains were too expensive, and began looking for a new shirt to make the old jeans appear more fastidious. What we saw were row after stacked row of striped, knitted Izod (or LaCoste) shirts, each with its trademark, the stitched-on alligators. Jon vehemently rejected these stereotypes, claiming he was sick and tired of wearing alligators and seeing them. "Everybody at school has alligators on striped knit shirts," he observed. It was enough to make a mother proud when he added, "Do we all have to look the same? We want to look different."

The salesgirl sympathized and blamed it on the buyer. The only thing he'd ordered for fall, in knit shirts with collars, were the alligators. "I don't blame you for being tired of them," she said; then added tiredly, "but if you really want to look different, why don't you switch from jeans to corduroy slacks? Or maybe a gabardine?"

Jon dismissed the entire concept. "Alligators are symbols," he said. "Jeans are pants."

And kids — regardless of genes, and regardless of jeans — are illogical. Kids also are more in danger of being robbed than the average citizen. A survey of American Express (AE) showed that teenagers were being robbed at a rate two-and-one-half times the average of the rest of the population.

AE warned, at the time of the survey in the early 1970s, that young people stop being so "money-blind" and start, literally, watching it.

It is all very idealistic to regard money as a symbol of materialism, decay and false values. A fact for youths to remember, however, is that if they allow themselves to be robbed, they are contributing to the materialistic, decayed and false-valued instincts of thieves — people who might be good citizens, fighting for ecology and justice, if they were not inspired to crime by youthful carelessness.

The most shocking news to come out of the survey was a revelation that the money-unconscious Americans between the ages of 18 and 20 comprise the largest proportion of citizens relative to population — and the fastest growing as well.

"Stated in another way," said American Express, "in the youth segment of the U.S. population, one in six persons a year is a victim — whereas the national average for all ages is one in 16."

The hypothesis is that in recent times, permissiveness among parents may have strengthened a tendency to "ignore the value of money," and in some cases even to find it uninteresting. AE suggested that money behavior patterns acquire while young tend to continue into adulthood, when the average person will flounder into serious trouble without financial stability.

"Children must be taught the value of money," said AE.

Either they learn that, or they'll never know where their next pair of $55 Pierre Cardin blue jeans are coming from.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Thursday, October 7, the 281st day of 1976. There are 85 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1765, the Stamp Act Congress convened in New York to draw up colonial grievances against England.

On this date —

In 1908, the island of Crete proclaimed union with Greece.

In 1935, the League of Nations declared Italy an aggressor following its invasion of Ethiopia.

In 1940, German forces occupied Romania in World War II.

In 1950, the United Nations General Assembly approved an Allied advance north of the 38th Parallel in the Korean War.

In 1963, President John F. Kennedy signed the nuclear test-ban treaty with Britain and the Soviet Union.

Ten years ago: President Lyndon B. Johnson called on the Soviet Union for a mutual reduction of forces in Europe as a step to improve East-West relations.

Five years ago: U.S. B-52 bombers were pounding enemy positions in Laos and Cambodia as well as Vietnam.

One year ago: Congress overrode President Ford's veto of a 2.7 billion dollar school lunch and child nutrition program.

Today's birthdays: Actress June Allyson is 53. Writer Helen MacInnes is 69.

Thought for today: I tell you folks, all politics is apple sauce. — Will Rogers, American humorist, 1879-1935.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the newspaper, New York Mercury — in British hands — reported that Royal forces were in control of most of Manhattan and all of Staten Island and Long Island and surrounding waters.

Editions Of The Past

5 YEARS AGO

Berger Hospital received full accreditation after three years of striving for it. Hospital Administrator John Reid, Richard Gerhardt, then mayor and hospital Board of Governors president, were singled out in the building modernization and revision of standards.

Logan Elm Superintendent John Henn reported that the open house for the new exchange school was a well-attended success. Visitors numbered over 2,000 for the four-hour showing of the county's most modern school.

Holiday Parker, Logan Elm's contribution to country music, was named Best Female Vocalist in country music in the Midwest.

The most recent United States Census showed a total of 1,217 farms in Pickaway County. The survey, taken in 1969 reported that the average size was 256.2 acres.

The additions to Circleville High School and Nicholas Elementary School progressed considerably. The school board approved equipment to furnish the new rooms.

LAFF - A - DAY

"I should have listened to my wife. She told me to take an umbrella."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I have been plagued with attacks of prostate infection. While I have a great deal of faith in my urologist I've become frustrated when he continues to tell me that the only way to clear up this condition is by massage of the prostate, which he has been doing, and medication. I live in a small town and I can't get him or any other surgeon to operate on me.

Mr. N.C.G., Ga.

Dear Mr. G.:
The thing that interests me most about your letter is the fact that you have been urging your doctor to operate on you although it is against his advice. Can you conceive of any reason why a surgeon would choose not to operate on you if there were a solid reason for doing so?

This is an astonishing pattern of thought, considering the fact that "unnecessary surgery" has become a major topic of debate.

Your doctor's judgment is a testimonial to his integrity. You should respect it, despite the fact your prostatic infection has not yet yielded to his treatment.

Be patient. Give your doctor an opportunity to prove that his judgment is correct.

I keep insisting that even though my husband does not have a heart condition his cigarette cough can eventually affect his heart. Isn't this true?

Mrs. M.H., Ohio

Dear Mrs. H.:

A long-standing chronic cough does indeed put an added burden on the heart. Cigarette smoke acts as an irritant. The lining of the bronchial tubes and the lungs becomes inflamed and the cough is an explosive effort to get rid of this irritation.

When there are secondary chronic changes in the lungs, especially with emphysema, an extra burden is put on the heart muscle.

Far too many people who are chronic smokers make their own diagnosis of having a "cigarette cough" and neglect the possibility that there may be other reasons for their cough. Any cough that lasts more than a reasonable length of time should have its origin established so that other possible conditions may be identified.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor:

Desiring to have news of the coming 1976 Pumpkin Show I am enclosing a $5 money order for a short subscription. I regret that owing to my wife's illness that we cannot attend this year, although we did from California attend the years of 1937, 1964, 1966 and 1967.

I am a native of Circleville, born there in 1897, and therefore saw the first Pumpkin Show of 1903. I do see and visit with Edgar Friedman almost every week who is living in retirement in Long Beach. He is well and happy at age 88. Edgar, as you may well know, is a brother of your famed Ted Lewis. With best regards to the Shea girls (Anna and Margaret), and any other old friends.

Truly Yours,
HAROLD STEPHENS
Long Beach

P.S. Best to Karl Herrmann and Alys.

Dear Editor:

Just a note to let you know that I will be at the Pumpkin Show this year. I spoke to Ben Gordon and my aunt, Mrs. Ted Lewis, and they think it a good idea if I come and try to raise a bit of money for the Ted Lewis memorial.

I will be there and am trying to get Ken Curtis (Festus) to drop by and say hello to the folks. Will be signing pictures in front of the museum and any donation will go to the Ted Lewis memorial.

If the entertainment party wants any free entertainment from me, all they have to do is ask me to get up and I'll be happy to oblige. At this moment I am working with my boss James Arness on a new project for ABC called "How the West Was Won." We just finished three two-hour shows. Take care and I'll be seeing you for the Pumpkin Show. My father, Edgar, Ted's brother, wants me to come for him. See you than. Please call Mary Crites for me and say hello to her and Kenny.

Sincerely
TED JORDAN

Marina Del Ray, Calif.

P.S. At this moment I am engaged in writing Ted's life story for the screen and I will have it ready by Xmas.

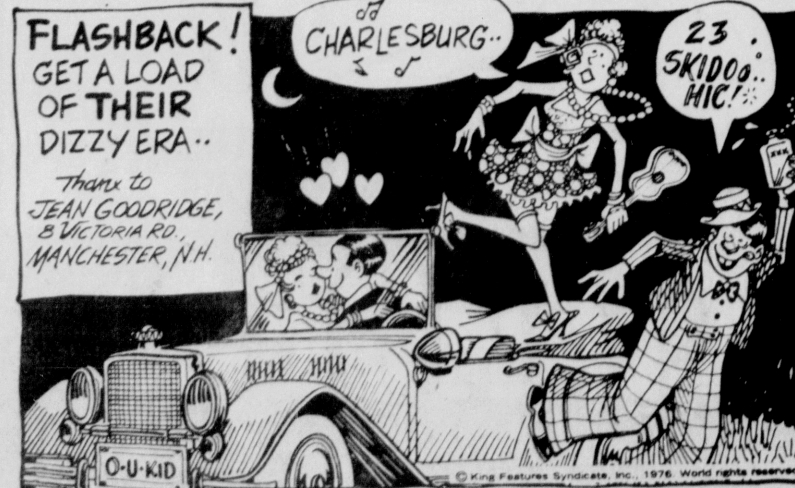

Chess Champion Blasts Fischer

MOSCOW (AP) — Anatoly Karpov, 25, the Soviet Union's world chess champion, says a possible match with ex-champ Bobby Fischer will come off only if Fischer eases his demands for rule changes in international play. Karpov met with Fischer recently and says he looks forward to a match with the temperamental American.

Karpov said in an interview that Fischer is holding to the demand that cost him his world title in 1975: that the 36-game limit be removed from championship play and that games continue until one player has 10 victories.

The American grandmaster said last month he and Karpov had agreed to a nontitle match. The Philippine government offered a $5 million purse for the games, but Karpov said he discussed no such sum with Fischer.

They'll Do It Every Time

Laurelville News

Mrs. Lois Swepton entertained for her daughter Lesley's birthday over the weekend. On Saturday afternoon a number of Lesley's playmates joined her for games and refreshments. They were — Troy Lehman, Stacey Karr, Tammv Reed, Valerie Mann, Ryan Fox, Shane, Shannon and Marty Karshner, Cheryl Ash, Bruce and Barry McFarland, Scott and Judy Kinser. Unable to attend but sending gifts were Claudia Bowers, Jeanne and Clesta Rooney, Patti and Scott Ebert.

On Sunday evening, the date of Lesley's birthday, she enjoyed having relatives in for ice cream and cake. Helping her celebrate were Grandpa and Grandma Dick and Hattie Karr, John and Stacey Karr, Lowell and Frances Swepton; Melvin and Marion Swepton; Wanda and Andrew DeLong, Mabel Matthews, Robert, Betsy and Anita Swepton and Jeanne Rooney. Unable to come but sending gifts were Allen, Linda, Heidi, Faith and Duane Swepton.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ash, Rita Jean and Margaret Johnson of Laurelville called on Violet Parsons of Kingston on last Thursday. Upon arrival Margaret was surprised to find a table set with a birthday cake and other goodies. Those helping Margaret celebrate with a carry-in supper were Kim, Kris and Randy Parsons, Maria Barnhart, Sally Crabtree, Douglas Hennis, Shirley Street, Sue Cooley and Vicki and Etta Mae Stevens of Kingston; The Ash family, Mrs. Billie Johnson, Jonathan, Troyce and Dana, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Ash, Cheryl and Shannon all of the Laurelville area.

Mrs. Phyllis Swackhammer, Mrs. Jacquie Bigham, Mrs. Ruth Notestone and Nelle Swackhammer attended the workshop for United Methodist Women at the U.M. church in Nelsonville last Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Smith of Adelphi and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Newland visited the beautiful Salt Fork Lodge near Cambridge last Sunday.

Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Forest Wolf of Rt. 1, were Miss Vira Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Smith, Miss Rita Carpenter and Roger Weaver. Afternoon visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hedges of Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael McFadden (Charma Kerr) of Tarlton, entertained with a dinner on Saturday eve. in honor of their son Jarrod's first birthday. Guests were Jarrod's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Vern McFadden and Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Kerr of Laurelville, and his great grandmother, Mrs. Helen Lively of Chillicothe.

Monday dinner guests of Mrs. Zola Flanagan were Miss Jean Leach of Phoenix, Ariz.; Miss Leach's mother, Mrs. Minnie Foltz and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Tom Leach of Columbus. (Jean is spending a vacation with the Foltz's), Mrs. Wilma Strous and Mrs. Geneva Hupp.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hedges of Columbus also visited Sunday afternoon with Mildred's brother and sister-in-law, Arnold and Elizabeth Reichelderfer of Tarlton and their former neighbor, Celesta Hoy. The Hedges will be leaving soon to spend the winter in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Ash, Cheryl and Shannon, Charlotte Ash, Rita Jean and Dave visited Old Man's Cave last Sunday and enjoyed the Hocking Hills Artists and Craftsman display. Hocking County is rich in talent as the different beautiful displays indicated. All the exhibitors must be residents of Hocking County.

Mr. and Mrs. George Reid and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Poling spent Sunday afternoon at Bob Evan's farm and enjoyed dinner there.

Jack Binkley and Eileen McGrath of Reynoldsburg were Sunday callers of Jack's sister, Margaret Johnson. After dinner at the restaurant in S. Perry, they attended the Arts and Crafts display at Old Man's Cave.

The following was written by Charles Dean, Principal of Laurelville school and was printed in the newsletter for the teachers recently — "If you are looking for something to do on the weekend, go to the Hocking Hills for a picnic and hike; skip a rock in Salt Creek; take a drive up the Ridge Road; Eat at a Laurelville restaurant; visit Mettler's grocery and see his antiques; visit Dumm's Department and General store; visit the two grain mills; eat a picnic lunch in the park; look over Foodtown's excellent meat department and go to the antique store. Cash a check at the Salt Creek Valley Bank; visit the apple house; get a hair cut, go to the beauticians. Eat some of the school cooks delicious cinnamon rolls, if you can talk them into making them. Regardless of what you do, the prices or the scenic beauty will be hard to beat."

For those who enjoy going to the lodge at Old Man's Cave for meals, the hours through October will be 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 5:30 to 8 p.m. and on Sunday, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Through November the lodge will be open on weekends only with special hours on Thanksgiving Day.

Executions Closer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Criminal executions, absent from the United States since 1967, are now one legal step closer to returning. But some of those who fought to restore the death penalty say the nation's gas chambers and electric chairs may remain idle for years.

The Supreme Court, in refusing Monday to reconsider its decision of last July upholding the death penalty laws of Florida, Texas and Georgia, removed a federal delay of executions in those states.

The death penalty laws of other states also are expected to meet the high court's requirements, but prosecutors discounted any possibility of mass executions of death-row prisoners in the near future.

In the meantime, the court agreed Monday to hear arguments in a different case that raises the question of whether the death penalty is constitutional for the crime of rape, as opposed to crimes where another person's life is taken.

After the court denied rehearings in the cases from Florida, Texas and Georgia, Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill predicted there will be no mass executions in his state and said appeal procedures could delay the first execution for two years. There are 39 men on death row in Texas.

Swine Flu Shots For Children Urged

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Federal health officials have reversed their earlier stand and now recommend swine flu shots for children, especially those who suffer from asthma or heart defects.

Deland Meriweather, director of the National Influenza Immunization Program, said here Tuesday that high-risk children already were receiving the vaccine at 16 test centers throughout the nation. He said he expects vaccination of normal children will begin on a national basis after a hearing at the National Institute of Health conference in Bethesda, Md., Oct. 22.

When the immunization program began Friday morning, only those over age 18 were eligible for the free inoculations.

Meriweather said children were excluded from the program not because they are safe from the disease but because tests showed "an unacceptable incidence of side effects in youngsters."

"We have identified everyone as being susceptible to the swine flu virus,"

He declined to give the rate of side effects in children, but he said it was higher than the estimated 1.9 per cent of adults who experienced a fever of up to 102 degrees for 24 hours after receiving the vaccine.

The government reversed its position because of a recommendation by the American Academy of Pediatrics, Meriweather said, and vaccination of high risk children began immediately.

"Should they become sick with the flu, they most often end up in the hospital," he said.

Based on their experience with high risk children, government officials should be able by the Oct. 22 meeting to recommend the proper dosage to minimize side effects in normal youngsters, he said. The proper dosage probably will be two injections — a regular shot followed by a booster.

Meriweather was in Indianapolis to address a national meeting of the American Legion, which has volunteered its meeting halls around the country for use as swine flu vaccination centers.

Mrs. Elizabeth Patton Speaks Of International Women's Decade, Purpose

WORLD TRAVELLER — Mrs. Elizabeth K. Patton of Columbus, speaker for Monday Club, told of "The International Women's Decade: Its Purposes And Program." Mrs. Patton, on the left, has travelled around the world and worked in many countries for the benefit of children and families in disaster and poverty areas. With her is Mary Ruth Tolbert, program chairman for the evening.

Monday Club members and their guests met at the Pickaway County Historical Museum to hear Mrs. Elizabeth K. Patton, Columbus, speak about "The International Women's Decade: Its Purposes And Program." Mrs. O. C. West opened the meeting by welcoming the many guests. The theme for the program was stated in a quotation from William Temple, Archbishop of Canterbury, "Human Rights ought not to depend upon the economic process."

In presenting the speaker, Mary Ruth Tolbert gave two purposes for the program topic, - to extend the perspective on international problems beyond national and provincial concerns, and to recognize influences that limit or facilitate women's work, education and status. Mrs. Patton spoke from an extensive background of international humanitarian activities having travelled around the world and having worked in many countries where projects were sponsored by United Church Women. For the past 15 years she has contributed her services to UNICEF and other United Nations agencies for the benefit of children and families in disaster and poverty areas.

In 1957 she was one of three women from Columbus who attended the United Nations Conference in Mexico City on the International Women's Year. At her own expense she represented one of the UN agencies in the Tribuna along with representatives of other non-government organizations. Official delegates of participating governments met at the same time in a closed conference to discuss the political and governmental aspects of women's rights and opportunities. Each day they reported to the Tribuna the issues being discussed and the resolutions and procedures recommended for action.

Mrs. Patton pointed out that after these delegates submitted their official conference report to their governments, their obligations are ended and further action depends upon the will and means of each government. In the Tribuna, the representatives of non-government organizations can initiate "grass roots" programs of action to influence or support legislation. The National Federated Women's Clubs will form a core of organizations for the purpose of maintaining observers at the United Nations who will become better informed and communicate with organizations about the policy making processes and the issues that are brought before the United Nations Assembly.

Mrs. Patton emphasized that the United Nations is not a world court, but can only provide assistance to countries that ask for help. She refuted the inaccurate claim by critics of UNICEF who have said that money collected here has been sent to communistic countries. She said that no UNICEF money leaves our country; only materials purchased here, such as food, clothing, medicine, books, and such are sent to relieve suffering and to maintain survival when governments request aid. Most workers are unpaid volunteers, and all interested persons are invited to join these efforts. She urged church women and community leaders to participate more actively in alleviating these same persistent problems in critical poverty areas which are prevalent in almost every large and in many rural communities of the United States.

In some nations women are still regarded as chattels without legal rights or a voice in family and civic matters. Their domestic work requires long tedious hours of labor due to primitive methods of food preparation and of securing or transporting water. She quoted statistics which reveal the differences in educational opportunities open to educable girls and boys. In countries where percentages of illiteracy are much higher for women than for men, little if any education has been available to girls.

Women in the United States and other established countries were speaking at the conference for an action program of equal rights amendment, continuing education for women, advanced degrees for careers, equal opportunities in major professions, business administration and government. Women from developing and emerging countries were speaking for the basic human needs of beginning education, learning to read, attention to health, means of securing food and shelter. The important goal for such conferences is to bring global awareness into the lives of more people everywhere. The ability to communicate about human needs becomes more critical each year as an increasing number of developing countries become voting members of the United Nations.

Mrs. Patton displayed artifacts from southern Mexico where women make marketable art products for family income. As in many other areas, large industries are now copying the native original art work to produce quantities of machine made replicas without paying any royalty or rights for the designs. This practice is taking away the only source of livelihood for many natives. Mrs. Patton's slides of the conference showed the variety of women's native costumes from the many participating countries as well as some leaders of church and women's organizations that were represented. She recommended the topic International Women's Decade rather than Year because the program of action to improve women's roles and rights will require ten years before substantive progress will be achieved.

At the close of the program, refreshments made from recipes of different countries were served by Mrs. James Sampson and Mrs. Ned Harden from a beautifully appointed table with an artistic autumnal centerpiece.

Assembly Of OES Addressed By Marie Hamilton

The Centennial Assembly, 35th Triennial, Grand Chapter of the World, Order of the Eastern Star, met last week in Cleveland, for the first time in Ohio.

Miss Marie Hamilton, past grand matron of Ohio, called the assembly to order as requested by Mrs. Ralph (Marguerite) Kennerdell, most grand worthy matron of Cleveland. Mrs. Kennerdell used as the theme for this year "The Art Of Living" and Miss Hamilton talked of that theme to the 12,000 persons present in Cleveland Public Auditorium. Dr. Dominic Drew, past grand patron of Ohio, was her escort.

At the Stars of Tomorrow Banquet the International Order of the Rainbow for Girls, International Job's Daughters and International Order of DeMolay were honored. The All-Ohio Youth Choir sang in the main arena.

Members of the organizations from all 50 states, Puerto Rico, Scotland, Bermuda, Canal Zone, Germany, Guam, Hawaii, Italy, Japan, Mexico, Newfoundland, Philippine Islands, Saudia Arabia and Taiwan were present. Favors were marble paper weights with a picture of the International Temple in Washington D. C.

In her address Miss Hamilton said that Ohio had brought light by Thomas Edison, flight by the Wright brothers, and now was giving a worthy grand matron, Mrs. Kennerdell of Cleveland, to the world of stardom.

Fred Schneider Guest Speaker For Monrovia Club

Members of the Monrovia Garden Club met Monday evening in Commercial Point United Methodist Church for their October meeting.

Margaret Finch welcomed the members and guests and introduced Fred Schneider of Marysville, who showed slides and gave an educational talk on the flowers and beautiful nature pictures he had taken. He referred nature as the handiwork of God.

Refreshments were served from a tea table centered with a bouquet of dahlias to the 23 members and five guests.

Mrs. Finch conducted the business session. Roll call was answered by the members naming their favorite all-purpose tree. Laura Long, read a thank you note from Helen Armentrout. It was announced that the Fall Regional Meeting will be held on Nov. 11th at Trinity Lutheran Church in Chillicothe.

The next meeting will be held in the Five Points United Methodist Church basement on Nov. 1 and will feature a workshop making pinecone wreaths by Mrs. Billy Hoover. Mrs. Joe Armentrout, Mrs. Ruth O'Day and Mrs. Juanita Woods will be the hostesses.

Hostesses for the October meeting were the program committee, Mrs. Finch, Mrs. Harry Smith, Mrs. Donald Horney, Mrs. Loring Stoer, Mrs. Allen Follrod and Mrs. Ralph Topping.

Trinity Lutheran Church Setting For Marriage Vows

MRS. CHARLES COURTNEY CECIL

Trinity Lutheran Church of Circleville was the setting for the wedding of Miss Debra Ann Schneider and Mr. Charles Courtney Cecil. The ceremony took place 2:30 p.m., Sept. 18, before the altar adorned with vases containing white and pink mums, pink carnations and greenery. The pews were marked with greenery, white bows and streamers. An arrangement of pink and white mums, pink miniature carnations and fern decorated the piano.

Pastor Carl G. Zehner performed the double ring service for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Schneider, 319 Meadow Lane, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Cecil, 1455 Roads End, Columbus.

In a musical program preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Thomas Downing, organist, played "We've Only Just Begun," "The Lord's Prayer," "Wedding Song," "Sunrise, Sunset," "Wedding Bells" and "O, Perfect Love." Flutist, Miss Susan Rush of Timaru, New Zealand, played "Day By Day," "A Time For Us" and "A Gift Of Love," accompanied by Mrs. Downing.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and mother. She was attired in a gown of silk organza over bridal taffeta. The bodice featured a high neckline and bishop sleeves. The A-line skirt fell softly to a dancing ruffle at the hemline. Chantilly lace enhanced the gown creating a border on the bodice, above the ruffle and down the skirt. The bride's veil was a mantilla of silk illusion with an elbow length blusher, held by a headpiece of matching lace and pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink miniature carnations, pink and white mums, stephanotis and baby's breath with greenery and white streamers. She carried a lace handkerchief belonging to her grandmother and wore a heart shaped necklace, a gift from the bridegroom.

Matron of honor was Mrs. William Colsher of Cincinnati. She wore a soft pink polyester double knit gown with lace trimming the square neckline, midriff, and flared short sleeves. She wore a lace bow in her hair and carried three long stemmed pink carnations, baby's breath and greenery, tied with pink and white ribbon.

Bridesmaids were the Misses Barbara and Amy Schneider, sisters of the bride. They were gowned identically as the matron of honor and carried matching flowers. The attendants all wore silver heart shaped necklaces, gifts of the bride.

Mr. Phil Caito of Columbus, was best man. Ushers were Mr. Kevin Kerr, Columbus, and Mr. Brock Erickson, a cousin of the bride from Stow.

The bride's mother selected for her daughter's wedding a Nile green polyester knit floor length gown with cap sleeves and lace trimmed sweetheart neckline. The bridegroom's mother chose a floor length gown of flowered chiffon in shades of green, pink, white and lavender. Both mothers carried nosegays of pink and white mums.

A reception at Pickaway Country Club followed the ceremony. A three tiered cake was placed at the center of the buffet table. The cake was surrounded by pink mums and greenery and flanked with pink tapers in glass candlesticks decorated with pink flowers.

Hostesses were Miss Inga Talbert of Columbus, and Miss Susan Rush of New Zealand. Miss Nancy Beals of Centerville, a cousin of the bride, presided at the guest register. Miss Barbara Painter of Circleville, played background music on the piano.

As the couple left for a wedding trip to Hocking State Park, the bride wore pink polyester knit slacks with a pink and white striped knit top. The couple now resides in Columbus.

The bride is a 1972 graduate of Circleville High School and 1976 graduate of the Ohio State University in communications. She is employed by S. M. Flickinger Co. in Columbus.

The bridegroom graduated from Columbus Academy, attended the Ohio State University, and is employed by

This is a report of the trip Mr. and Mrs. Paul (Ruby) Barch recently enjoyed as written by Mrs. Barch. "We made a special trip to the state of Washington to see my brothers and their families. One brother I hadn't seen for thirty-one years. We left on August 22nd and reached Washington on August 26th.

"Along the way we saw many scenic things, some we had studied in our childhood days, such as Mt. Rushmore and Custers Last Stand. Along with the happiness of our trip we saw some sadness, 800 miles of dry land. This made us appreciate our land back home when we saw how much those poor farmers needed rain. South Dakota was disastrous. This makes you think how much God has blessed us.

"Our folks gave us a tour around Washington for a couple of days. We saw some Indian Reservations, Olympic National Park, Hurricane Ridge, also some interesting views from the Ridge such as Meadow Gardens, Mt. Baker, Mt. Ranier and Mt. Washington. We also crossed Puget Sound.

"We visited San Francisco on our return trip home. We had a wonderful tour guide there, Mrs. Joseph Mulloy, the parents of our daughter and son-in-law. There we saw Fishermen's Wharf, China Town, Marina Area, Fort Point and many, many other interesting places.

"In Utah we saw the Bonneville Race Track also the Salt Flats. Salt Lake City was pretty with a beautiful Mormon Church. Nevada and Utah were so terribly dry letting us realize how fortunate we are here to have our farm crops. Sad to ride along and see field after field burned up from lack of moisture."

Results of the Ashville Belles Tuesday Morning Housewives Bowling League for Oct. 5 were: High three-game series, Nadine Findley, 570; High single game, Delores Messick, 217; High team series and game, Lovely Lady Hair Fashions, 2152 and 772.

The Methodist Youth Fellowship of the Village United Methodist Church was reorganized for the coming year. The following officers were elected at their first meeting on Sept. 12. President Tony Siriano; vice-president Chris Tussing; secretary John Blaney and treasurer Rachel Swank.

On Oct. 3 a wiener roast was held for the group at the Gaylon Pobst home. The following members and guests were present; Tony Siriano, Chris Tussing, Rachel Swank, Rocky Siriano, Diana Blaney, Lisa Rathburn, Pam Dennis, Carolyn Lutz, Patty Caplinger, Theresa Rathburn, John Blaney, Tracy Beggrow, Tony Nelson, Theresa Dennis. Also present were their counselors, Brenda and Dave Gibson, Clarabelle and Dick Pobst and guests Wilson and Diana Ett.

Their next meeting will be Oct. 17 at which time they will discuss projects for the year.

Mrs. Ernestine Craig returned home Tuesday from Berger Hospital where she had been a medical patient for over a week. She would like to thank everyone for the many cards she received, for all the visits while in the hospital and many, many thanks to their neighbors for all the help they gave her before she entered the hospital.

Owl Party Lines Up Candidates

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — The Owl — party, that is — has taken flight as probably the most unlikely slate of political candidates in Washington state history.

Owl, a double acronym for "Out With Logic, On With Lunacy," got word Tuesday that its candidates for statewide offices from governor to land commissioner had been validated for a spot on the November general election ballot.

"Well, we did it, and now we can really go out and espouse our program," said Red Kelly, an Olympia bar owner who is the party's founder and candidate for governor.

The platform? "We're for everything and against everything else," said Kelly, who played bass guitar with the Harry James band for 20 years. "I'm going to put some real zip into this campaign that up to now has featured a man with all the zing of a mashed potato sandwich and Bionic Woman's aunt, Atomic Woman."

He was referring to his gubernatorial opponents, Republican John Spellman and Democrat Dixy Lee Ray, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The Owl party qualified under a state law that allows minor-party candidates to appear on the ballot if they hold a convention on primary election day and collect the signatures of 100 registered voters who did not cast ballots in the Sept. 19 primary election.

A Warm, Rich, Mediterranean Look...

BORGHESE
HUNTLEY FURNITURE by Thomasville

Here's a wealth of Mediterranean design motifs rarely found on suites at modest prices. Bold classical shaped molding, flush-to-the-floor styling with recessed plinth bases, and acanthus leaf details on end posts are features that give Borghese extra richness. This handsome all-wood design, crafted of cherry veneers, is finished in both a rare mid-range fruitwood shade, and a new decorator paint that adds a freshness to any room setting. Custom hardware in the classic tradition is the crowning touch of beauty.

Wants Censorship, To Protect Youth

DEAR ABBY: I am aware that you find pornography offensive but feel that adults should be free to take it or leave it. How about children?

I recently found pictures in my 14-year-old son's room that would make Sodom and Gomorrah look like a Sunday school picnic!

While hard-core pornography is supposedly available only to adults, like drugs, it's available in abundance to kids of all ages on every street corner in America.

Our enemies suppress pornography and drugs in their own countries because they know that the way to destroy a nation is first to corrupt the morals of its youth. Corny, you think? I disagree with you and others who say that censorship violates our freedom.

If this constitutes freedom, you can have it! Believe me, a country that outlaws the ancient profession of prostitution but condones pornography is sick, sick, sick!

A FATHER

DEAR FATHER: If hard-core

Jimmy Carter Likes Rock Music

LONDON (AP) — Jimmy Carter says he likes rock 'n' roll and thinks popular music has had a "profound influence" on American life.

In an interview shown Tuesday night on the BBC-TV rock program "The Old Grey Whistle Test," the U.S. Democratic presidential nominee said he has close personal friendships with members of many rock groups and that several of them have helped his campaign.

Asked to single out his favorite rock stars, Carter said Bob Dylan had the "most impact" and he enjoyed the Allman Brothers and the Bachman Turner Band.

The BBC interview was filmed several weeks ago at a record company garden party in Macon, Ga.

pornography is "available in abundance" to kids of all ages on every street corner in America, (and I doubt that it is,) I think the peddler should be pinched and prosecuted.

I remind you that "our enemies" suppress many things besides pornography allegedly to avoid "moral corruption" of their youth. And if I read you right, we'd gain little by legalizing prostitution but denying adults the freedom to choose their own reading material.

DEAR ABBY: I've gone with this guy for over a year and I love him very much. He says he loves me, too, but listen to this: The other night my girlfriend and I were together changing from our regular clothes into our swimsuits in a little beach house.

My boyfriend later told me that he was "amazed" that I would show my naked body to another girl, and he actually accused me of being a lesbian! Abby, nothing could be further from the truth, but that's the way this guy had it figured out.

I did my best to assure him that he was mistaken, but he wouldn't believe me. Have you ever heard of anything so ridiculous? I swear, in today's society a woman can't even kiss her own sister without someone thinking she's gay. Help me!

STRAIGHT & HURT

DEAR STRAIGHT: Your boyfriend is jumping to some rather strange conclusions. His apparent hangups needs professional counseling. If he can't see it that way, you'd better look elsewhere for a boyfriend.

DEAR ABBY: A reader asked why he should tip a waiter when the chef cooked the excellent meal. Having been in the restaurant business for nearly 50 years, I think I can answer that question.

The chef (or cook) draws the highest salary in the place, and most chefs get "tipped" from the waiters and waitresses "in appreciation" for getting their orders out quickly.

You could call it "blackmail" for want of a better name, but that's the way it's done in the better restaurants. And there is no use going to the boss because a good chef is hard to find, but waiters can be had by the dozens.

Talk about your prima donna! Artists could learn a lot about temperament from these kings of the kitchen!

Mayaguez Report Brings Gripes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are complaining about the timing and content of a congressional report that criticizes the handling of the Mayaguez incident.

The General Accounting Office, in a report issued Tuesday, said Marines were ordered to invade a Cambodian island and rescue crewmen from the captured cargo ship, despite reports that the crewmen were no longer on the island.

The report also said intelligence information incorrectly indicated the island would be defended by about 20 Cambodian soldiers, but the Marines landing on the island were met by fire from about 150 heavily armed men.

Eighteen Marines were killed or listed as missing as a result of the assault on May 15, 1975, and 23 Air Force men were killed in a helicopter crash two days earlier.

The report, released by the House international political and military affairs subcommittee, said the Cambodians began releasing the crewmen from another location while the attack on the island was starting.

Shortly after the release of the report, President Ford's press secretary, Ron Nessen, said Ford disagrees with the conclusions. He said Ford "carried out the actions in the Mayaguez case and believed they were right."

Link FBI In Kidnap

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — Defense attorneys for James Garside, one of the men on trial in the December kidnap-slaying of Detroit banker James Crawford, have subpoenaed Atty. Gen. Edward Levi and FBI Director Clarence Kelley to testify in Garside's defense.

Garside contends he was acting as a paid FBI informer when he accompanied another man and a woman from Detroit to Newark in December. Crawford's body was found in a rural area near here Dec. 10.

Garside's attorneys subpoenaed Levi and Kelley to appear in person Oct. 18 and answer questions about Garside's role in the case.

The FBI has said Garside was an informant for two years before the kidnaping. Two agents who were his contacts have since left the service and will not say whether Garside was providing information in the Crawford case.

Jury selection is continuing in the trial with testimony expected to begin later in the week.

Garside, of Columbus, is the second person to be tried in the case. William Nabozny, 38, of Dearborn, Mich., has been convicted and faces a death sentence. Sharron Scheurell, 25, also of Columbus, is awaiting trial.

Rep. Larry Winn Jr. of Kansas, one of two Republican members of the House subcommittee that released the report, noted that the document was released the day before Ford and Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter were to debate foreign policy.

"I'm sorry that someone saw fit to release it now, because I was told it wouldn't be released until after the election," Winn said.

Winn said the report raised generally legitimate questions, but he said he had been told by a subcommittee staff member it would not be released until after the election "because it could — they didn't think so, but it could — become a political issue."

But Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., chairman of the subcommittee, said timing of the release "was never a question." He said the report had been held up by the National Security Council, which is controlled by the White House, because of a dispute over what portions of the report should be seen by the public.

Fascell said the NSC had at first wanted to keep the entire report secret, but the subcommittee had refused, leading to negotiations that did not end until late September.

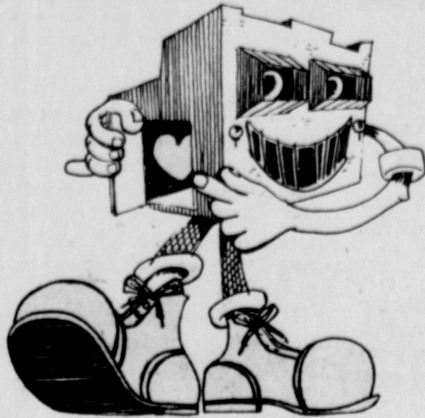

The GAO report concluded: —U.S. officials should have relied on and checked further U.S. jet pilots' accurate reports that all or most of the Mayaguez crew appeared to be on a fishing boat and not on Koh Tang Island, which the Marines raided to rescue them.

—Accurate U.S. intelligence that about 150 heavily armed Cambodian soldiers were on the island never reached planners of the Marine raid, who thought the Marines would be resisted by about 20 soldiers.

—The Marine raid and U.S. bombing on Cambodia's mainland "did not influence the Cambodian decision to release the crew," although there was no way for U.S. officials to know that at the time.

Dueling Amendment On State Ballot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three obsolete provisions in Ohio's constitution, including one which forbids duelists from holding public office, would be repealed by Issue 2 on Ohio's Nov. 2 general election ballot.

It is one of the three amendments on the ballot proposed by the Ohio Constitutional Revision Commission, an organization of lawmakers and citizens which studies the constitution and seeks ways to eliminate obsolete or unneeded language, clarify ambiguities and fill gaps.

The amendment was approved by the General Assembly before being placed on the ballot.

Besides the duelist provision, the proposed amendment also would repeal a section requiring competitive bidding on public printing unless the state does the printing itself and a section allowing a statistical bureau to be established in the secretary of state's office.

The commission says all three provisions are unneeded.

Aside from the fact that dueling is no longer common practice, the commission says the dueling provision is unneeded because it is a subject best handled by the General Assembly, which is specifically authorized to bar felons from office.

"The legislature has inherent power to regulate eligibility to office by statute," the commission said. "Statutory material should be deleted from the constitution unless compelling reason exists for making an exception to that rule."

The state printing section is obsolete because the state does its own printing and because such administrative details are best handled through legislation, not constitutional restrictions, the commission says.

"The constitutional provision serves no purpose," the commission argued. "Its original incorporation in the Ohio Constitution of 1851 is an example of the excess of detail in constitutions of the 19th century, reflecting popular distrust of state lawmaking bodies because of legislative excesses and abuses."

The secretary of state's statistics division also amounts to wasted words, the commission says.

"Unnecessary detail in the constitution often restricts legislative innovation," the commission said. "The General Assembly has ample power to create a statistical bureau, and the affirmation of powers already possessed is unwise because it may be interpreted as limiting such action to the office of secretary of state."

The commission noted that the provision was inserted in the constitution because the state board of agriculture failed to collect agricultural information in 1850, just before the constitutional convention was held.

There is no organized opposition to Issue 2.

Mondale Brings Up Nixon Pardon

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — With Jimmy Carter's apparent approval, Sen. Walter F. Mondale has felt free to speak his mind on the Democratic campaign trail, even if he disagrees with his running mate.

On Tuesday, Mondale raised the issue of President Ford's 1974 pardon of Richard M. Nixon and declared that Watergate and other governmental abuses of power are "not yesterday's issue."

Carter has said the Nixon pardon should not become an issue in the 1976 presidential campaign.

But Mondale aides say the vice presidential nominee discussed his disagreement with Carter over this point early in the campaign.

They add that Mondale's Kansas City speech on Watergate was sent to Carter headquarters in Atlanta, reviewed by the presidential candidate's staff, and there was no hint of disapproval.

Mondale has also publicly disagreed with Carter on the direction the Supreme Court has been moving in law enforcement. Mondale firmly supported the rights of criminal defendants, while Carter said he agreed with the trend of recent court decisions reducing restrictions on how police gather evidence and make arrests.

The Minnesota senator also is opposed to capital punishment, whereas Carter believes some crimes should be punishable by death.

MIA Statements Hit Home In Ohio

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Jimmy Carter spoke of families of Americans missing in action in Southeast Asia being in "despair and doubt" because of lack of information from Vietnam.

Sandra Paul is among them. The 53-year-old state coordinator of the Ohio Chapter, National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia, clung to every word spoken by Carter and President Ford in their second nationally televised debate Wednesday night.

When her husband, Kenneth, 53, an elementary school superintendent, returned home late from work to catch the last part of the debate and asked her if the missing in action issue had come up, she told him, "Quiet, I'm listening."

Their son, Craig, now 30, an Air Force captain, was shot down in a B52 bomber near Hanoi four years ago and is among the 800 Americans still listed as missing in action.

Mrs. Paul, who recently underwent surgery, had sent telegrams to Ford and Carter in advance of the debate asking them to elaborate on the issue.

As the debate wore on, Mrs. Paul said she began to worry that the MIA issue might not come up. It came up at the very last.

Ford restated his policy that he would never go along with the admission of Vietnam to the United Nations if its government did not give the United States a bona fide, complete accounting of MIAs.

Carter said that one of the most embarrassing failures of the Ford Administration is his refusal to appoint a presidential commission to go to Vietnam and try to trade for the release of information about the missing. Carter said he would never normalize relations with Vietnam nor permit it to join the United Nations

Woman Regains Eyesight

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — What is it like to unexpectedly regain your sight after six years of living in darkness?

"I can't explain the happiness I feel," said Connie Green. "I feel it is a miracle. I believe in God and I believe in miracles."

Mrs. Green's sight returned recently just as suddenly as she lost it in 1970 following a head injury. She said the doctors cannot explain it.

"It was not a psychological blindness," said the 33-year-old Mrs. Green. "All the eye doctors say that the same damage is there. Only, now I can see."

The doctors also warned her that her sight might go away again.

"If I lose it again I will have no regrets," she said. "I have now seen my children after six years. I have seen my friends, and trees...flowers, sunrises, the autumn leaves."

"At least I have been blessed with being able to see all the important things I have missed."

"I will never regret these past six years because I feel God wanted me to walk that road. I have really grown as a person," Mrs. Green explained.

During those years of feeling her way through the world with the help of family, friends and a seeing eye dog, Mrs. Green became well known in Dayton area community affairs.

She became an accomplished belly dancer, saying it was a "really important form of expression."

She provided for her four children, now ranging in age from 12 to 16, who she said were "shocked and amazed" when she regained her sight, and stayed involved in church, school and social activities.

It was in church where her sight began to return and it will be in church tonight where Mrs. Green and a small group of friends will meet for a special thanksgiving mass.

"I am so grateful for this miracle," she said. "I want to thank God, along with my friends. I owe so much to God."

until its government had supplied the information.

"We need to have an active and aggressive action on the part of the President," Carter said, "to seek out every possible way to get that information which has kept the MIA families in despair and doubt, and Mr. Ford has just not done it."

Mrs. Paul said she felt that Carter "spoke more strongly" on the issue, but that "there is a wide difference between promises and action." She said neither candidate touched specifically on what steps they might take against Vietnam beyond denying it admission to the United Nations.

Portsmouth Plant Given Ford Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford reiterated his commitment to construct an additional government-owned uranium enrichment plant near Portsmouth, Ohio, during his nationally televised debate with Democrat Jimmy Carter Wednesday night.

The President was responding to a charge by Carter that he has insisted that uranium enrichment "be done by private industry and not by the existing government plants."

"I have recommended to the Congress," Ford said, "that we develop the uranium enrichment plant at Portsmouth, Ohio, which is a publicly owned U.S. government facility and have indicated that the private program which would follow on in Alabama is one that may or may not be constructed. But I am committed to the one at Portsmouth, Ohio."

Ford originally endorsed the project during a primary campaign stop in Columbus last May 26.

Congress has approved the spending of $170 million to start the $2.3 billion project north of Portsmouth in Pike County. The initial funds are for design, planning and procurement during fiscal year 1977.

It will be an expansion of another government enrichment plant operated under contract by Goodyear Atomic Corp. The government also has similar plants at Paducah, Ky., and Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Penalties Appealed

SILVER BAY, Minn. (AP) — Reserve Mining Co. has appealed federal court penalties for disposal of taconite wastes in Lake Superior and the order that the practice be halted by next July 7 or the operations in northeastern Minnesota be ended.

The company went to the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals Tuesday, seeking reversal of orders issued by Judge Edward Devitt in the major environmental lawsuit based on Reserve's taconite beneficiating methods.

Reserve asked the appellate court in St. Louis, Mo., to:

—Vacate the order issued July 7 in U.S. District Court, requiring Reserve "to cease discharge of taconite tailings into Lake Superior one year from today."

—Reverse an order levying a civil penalty of $837,500 against the company for violation of a state permit under which it disposes of tailings in the lake.

—Set aside an order for $200,000 in sanctions for violation of court rules and orders in concealing documents and evidence during the trial before Judge Miles Lord, who was succeeded by Devitt.

—Affirm that part of the Devitt order refusing to assess additional penalties against Reserve — $40.2 million for stateclaimed violations of law.

Campus Notes

Five Princeton University undergraduates, three men and two women, have been named David Lawrence Scholars, including one from Circleville.

ELIZABETH SHOLLENBERGER

Elizabeth A. Shollenberger, 20, of 131 Dunmore, is a graduate of Circleville High School. Shollenberger is active in the Student Volunteers Council and has tutored at the Jamesburg Reformatory. She is a "big sister" to a local youngster and was an assistant Girl Scout leader during her freshman year.

Shollenberger is publications chairperson for the university's Orange Key Guide Service and is a member of the Aquinas Institute, an organization serving the Roman Catholic community which is engaged in activities such as fund raising and initiating social and educational programs. She is concentrating in urban affairs and is considering a career in social welfare.

The David Lawrence Scholarship Fund was initiated in 1974 by the magazine, U.S. News & World Report, as a memorial to their late founder, editor, and board chairman. A 1910 Princeton graduate, Lawrence went on to become the dean of American columnists in a journalism career that spanned some sixty years. The scholarship recipients are students in the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs.

Laura Kerns, sophomore at Ohio University, is a member of the Ohio University marching band. Laura is playing trumpet with the "110 Of

Man Cuts Off Hand

STAFFORD, Conn. (AP) — An 18-year-old man said he cut off his hand because he "got in a fight with the devil," then walked the streets with a Bible to preach the word of God, says the policeman who found him.

Robert Huettl of Stonington, Conn., was in stable condition Tuesday night at Hartford Hospital following surgery to restore his right hand. A spokesman said it was too early to tell if the operation had been successful.

Patrolman Frank Kania said he found Huettl Monday night as the young man was walking along Route 190, carrying a Bible under his arm and bleeding heavily.

"I asked him why he did it and he said, 'If your right hand offends thee, cut it off and toss it away,'" Kania said in an interview.

He said Huettl's parents told police their son had no history of any wrongdoing or instability.

They could not be reached for comment.

The young man had taken a room Sunday night in an inn and was to attend a nearby truck drivers' school, Kania said. He apparently graduated from high school in June.

KSU Probe Said Limited

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A probe of alleged irregularities in issuing degrees at Kent State University is limited to the role of a lawyer helping his client, says an attorney general's aide.

Jim Gravelle of the attorney general's staff said the investigation is not a search for wrongdoing by the university. He said the attorney general's office would not have any jurisdiction in such a matter.

Steve Parisi, a private attorney retained by the attorney general, met with Kent State President Glenn Olds on Monday after published allegations that a Puerto Rican businessman was improperly issued a doctoral degree, Gravelle said Tuesday.

Reports published Sunday said it was possible the degree was granted in exchange for favors for some Kent State officials.

Andres Bermudez, who was vice president of the Puerto Rican Cement Co. and a faculty member at Catholic University in Ponce, P.R., obtained a

EMPLOYEE OF THE MONTH — Berger Hospital starts a new program honoring outstanding employees with an award given to Mrs. Joyce Peters. Charles Rideout, hospital administrator presents to Mrs. Peters a $25 savings bond and his congratulations. Each honored employee will be selected by fellow employees, and the award is rotated through the hospital's 14 departments. An employee of the year will then be chosen, who will be awarded $100 in cash. Another program implemented by the hospital this summer awards employees for good attendance. They receive savings bonds as honor points for prompt attendance. Mrs. Peters has worked full time on the hospital's night shift since 1974. As a part time employee, she has been with the hospital since 1965. She and her husband Tom and their two daughters live at 372 Cedar Heights Road. This year Mrs. Peters is president of Pickaway County Nurses Association.

Ohio Farmers See Decline In Earnings

WOOSTER, Ohio (AP) — Ohio farmers sold their products for more money than ever before last year, but still saw their total income decline nearly 10 per cent, according to the 1975 Ohio Farm Income report. Total farm sales hit $2.6 billion last year, up 3 per cent from the 1974 record, according to the report by The Ohio State University and the Ohio

Agricultural Research and Development Center.

Even with record sales, the 1975 total farm income figure for the state after expenses was $627 million, a drop of $61.3 million from the previous year.

Corn sales topped the cash producers for the first time since annual sales estimates began in 1924. Corn production totaled $491 million, 18.8 per cent of the total.

The higher corn market helped offset a 27 per cent decline in soybean sales from 1974. Soybean sales totaled $434 million for 16.6 per cent of the total state market and fell from the No. 1 ranking for the first time since 1974.

Crop sales in 1975 accounted for 56.9 per cent of the total, amounting to $1.5 billion, a 5 per cent decline from 1974. Livestock and livestock product sales amounted to $1.1 billion, or 43.1 per cent of the total.

In major livestock groups, dairy cash receipts maintained their third-place rank with sales of $371.5 million, up 4 per cent from the year before. Cattle and calves moved into fourth in importance as cash producers with sales of $308 million, dropping hogs to fifth at $307 million.

Wheat cash sales rose 12 per cent to $236 million for sixth place and poultry and eggs held on to seventh place with a 6 per cent increase to $116 million.

Darke County again led the state in total cash receipts from farming with $94 million, up $6 million from 1974. The next four counties—Mercer, Wayne, Wood and Putnam—each exceeded $68 million in cash sales.

While corn was the farmer's biggest cash producer, it was the top commodity in only 17 counties. Soybeans and dairy products were the main moneymaker in 22 counties each and cattle and calves were most important in 14 counties.

Lobbyist Raps Job Safety Move

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's new job safety program, expected by state officials to save taxpayers millions of dollars, is like making cherry pie without the cherries, says a state AFL-CIO lobbyist.

The state Department of Industrial Relations and Industrial Commission announced earlier this week that job safety enforcement would be turned over to the federal government, limiting the state's role to education, training and employer consultation.

Despite state supervision, inspections by the U.S. Occupational Safety and Health Administration failed to curb a 50 per cent increase in industrial accidents from 1972 to 1976, state officials said.

"They say the OSHA program didn't work; they sure found a lot of violations...in this state," said state AFL-CIO lobbyist Charles Borsari. "The State of Ohio is, for all practical purposes, abandoning enforcement."

"The safety enforcement program by the state has been killed and it's been left to the federal people," he said. "The number of safety enforcement officers has been reduced drastically."

An effective enforcement program requires "a strong education program, a strong consultation program...and strong enforcement. Without any of those ingredients you cannot have a good, strong, effective safety program. It's like taking a recipe to make cherry pie and leaving out the cherries," he said.

Woman Given Prison Term For Welfare Dept. Theft

An Ashville woman, charged with the theft of over $5,000 cash and food stamps from welfare departments in two counties, was sentenced to the Mansfield Reformatory for Women Wednesday by Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer.

Helen Bloomfield, 41, S. Walnut St., Ashville, was sentenced to a term of six months to five years after changing her plea to guilty to the theft charge.

She was accused of unlawfully receiving money and food stamps totaling $5,139 from the Pickaway County and Jackson County Welfare Departments.

After changing his plea to guilty on two counts of the sale of narcotic drugs, Paul D. Tatman, 152 York St., was sentenced to concurrent six months to five year terms in the Mansfield Reformatory.

He was arrested July 22 and July 23. Restitution was the term of probation for three persons who pled guilty in Common Pleas Court and were given suspended sentences.

Michael Lee Fields, 18, 13400 Ringgold Northern Road, entered a guilty plea Aug. 3 to a charge of breaking and entering. He was arrested following an incident at a boat concession stand at A.W. Marion State Park July 3.

Fields was granted probation for three years after Judge Ammer suspended a six month to five year term in the Mansfield Reformatory he had imposed.

Earl Richard Shaffer, 29, Route 1, Lockbourne, was given a suspended six month to five year term in the Mansfield Reformatory if he makes restitution of $522.32 in a check forgery case.

He was arrested and charged Aug. 18. Probation is for three years.

Twenty-one-year old Nita Louise Whaley, 116 W. Ohio St., was given a suspended six month to five year term to the Mansfield Reformatory for Women on the same charge.

Judge Ammer placed her on probation for three years if she makes restitution of $522.32.

Arraignments were held in six cases. Judge Ammer reset trial date for Woodrow T. Burton, Route 2, Ashville, to Oct. 13 to allow him sufficient time to meet with a court-appointed attorney.

Burton, charged with receiving stolen property, was arrested Sept. 6 on a charge that he unlawfully received, retained, or disposed of picnic tables from the Columbus Metropolitan Park Authority knowing they had been stolen.

Five others pled not guilty to arraignments and their trial dates will be set at a later date by Judge Ammer.

Harold Jackson, Milledgeville, pled not guilty to a charge of receiving stolen property.

He was arrested following an Aug. 28 incident at the Grove City Farmer's Exchange.

Terry Kelley, Romulus, Mich., pled not guilty to grand theft.

The charge states that Kelley did unlawfully take clothing, pictures, and a dog owned by Lucinda Kirk on July 31.

Brent A. Keylor, Route 2, Harrisburg - London Road, Orient, pled not guilty to grand theft.

The charge states that he did unlawfully take automobile equipment and a tape player from Darwin Billett, items that had a value of more than $150.

Donald Donaldson, 11578 Poplar St., Ashville, pled not guilty to escape.

He is charged with the attempted break from detention Aug. 15.

Rodney Wellman, Route 3, pled not guilty to tampering with evidence.

The charge states that Wellman unlawfully altered, destroyed, or removed something with the purpose to impair its availability as evidence in a case.

The incident occurred July 30 at Harden Chevrolet.

Probation of Larry Paul Lane, 22, 1055 Chenwith Road, Harrisburg, was ordered extended until Nov. 21, 1977, by Judge Ammer after Lane admitted violating terms of his original probation.

He was also ordered to pay restitution and court costs still owing by weekly payments by April 1, 1977.

Lane was given probation July 17, 1973, after he was charged with the grand theft of items from Deercreek Auto Parts, Williamsport.

Bruce W. London, 108 W. Paint St., Washington C.H., was read his sentence by Judge Ammer.

London, found guilty of three counts of grand theft and a vandalism charge Sept. 21 by a jury trial, had absconded during the trial.

He was apprehended within 48 hours in Colorado by Pickaway County Sheriff's Detective Donald Thompson and returned here. The trial continued in his absence.

London was sentenced to four terms of one to five years in the Ohio Penitentiary.

He was accused of the theft of a radio from the car of Detective Thompson and vandalism to his car, the theft of a tape player from a car owned by Donald R. Morris and the theft of a tape deck radio from a car owned by Richard Rickman.

GTE Employees Receive Training

Bob D. Strawser of Route 1, Ashville, a switchworker, has received a certificate for completing a course in electro-mechanical switching systems at General Telephone Co. of Ohio's technical training school, Marion.

This two-week course covers instructions on the operation and repair of central office equipment.

Strawser has been with the company for five and one-half years and works in various exchanges in the company's Circleville district.

Paul J. Adams of 116 Parkview Ave., an I & M Foreman, has received a certificate for completing a course at General Telephone Co. of Ohio's technical training school.

This course includes procedures for installing and repairing electronic multi-line pushbutton telephones used by business customers.

Adams has been with the company for 30 years and works in various exchanges in the company's Circleville district.

Three area employees have received certificates for completing a course at General Telephone Co. of Ohio's technical training school. They are: Evelyn L. Browning of 226 Town, Lottie M. Liff of 364 E. Union and Kim C. Sowers, of 224 Lewis Rd., of Circleville.

The course enables employees to understand and discuss with customers their records and billing procedures.

These employees work in the company's Circleville district. These courses are among the more than 90 provided by the technical training school headquartered in Marion, is part of General's plan for continual education of employees to keep pace with telephony developments.

Former Governor Folsom Blind

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — Former Alabama Gov. James E. "Big Jim" Folsom visited the Alabama Institute for the Deaf and Blind, where he'll soon take up residence.

The former governor is legally blind, according to his son, Jack, who accompanied him.

George McFaden, director of the department for adult blind and deaf, said that after Folsom is admitted he will be trained in walking with a cane and taught daily living skills.

"I want the fundamentals, learning to walk and pick up a fork," said Folsom, who served two terms as Alabama's governor. He will be 68 Saturday.

As governor, Folsom successfully backed a $3-million bond issue to build the institute in this east Alabama city.

Ohio Assembly Leisurely Studies Jobs Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A House committee has opened hearings on Gov. James A. Rhodes' industrial tax incentives legislation but indicated it won't be rushed through a special legislative session as requested by the governor.

Ways and Means Chairman George D. Tablack, D-52 Campbell, said after hearing sponsors' explanations of the

Laurelville Students Visit Nature Reserve

The two sixth grade classes of Laurelville Elementary School traveled to Wahkeena Nature Preserve Oct. 7 and 8. The 70 students were accompanied by their science teacher, Alan Cohen, who arranged the trip as part of a program to make the students aware of the natural history of Southern Ohio.

Wahkeena is the former estate of Mrs. Carmen Warner, who received the property as a wedding gift from her husband. In the years that she lived there, Mrs. Warner developed the one time farm into a plant and wildlife sanctuary. Wahkeena was willed to the State Historical Society and is now open to the public if permission is obtained.

Tom Wood, the naturalist, led walks on both mornings. He combined a knowledge of birds, insects, plants and Indian lore to make the introduction to the preserve most interesting. After a sack lunch, Ann Binghamman, the park ornithologist, gave a slide and tape lecture on winter birds. The students have been learning to identify bird calls and found this talk especially valuable. The remainder of the day was spent attracting and observing birds.

Natural highlights seen by the students were white baneberry, lizards tail flowers, and a rose breasted nuthatch.

Wahkeena will be visited again in the winter and the spring so the students can observe the various environmental changes brought on by the seasons.

Social Democrat Loses Presidency

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Social Democrat Annemarie Renger is losing the highest political post ever held by a woman in West Germany now that the Conservatives have won back the parliamentary presidency.

But women have made a slight gain in the lower house of parliament. The number of seats they hold in the 496-member Bundestag went from 36 to 39.

Mrs. Renger, 57, will keep her parliamentary seat, although she must give up the presidency of the Bundestag.

threebill package Wednesday that committee deliberations will take at least three more weeks. He promised a committee decision on the package by Oct. 27.

Rhodes had requested that the Democratic legislature call itself into special session to enact the bills, saying they are needed urgently to head off a major exodus of industry stemming from Ohio's uncompetitive (with other states) tax laws.

Calling the special session would give the legislation no special impetus, Tablack said, adding that the issues are complex and require detailed study.

In addition, Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, has indicated the measures will run into a snag in the upper chamber even if approved by the House.

Ocasek called the package "tax relief for the few at the expense of the many" and charged Rhodes is only trying to create a crisis atmosphere to enhance the chances of Republican legislative candidates in the Nov. 2 election.

In recent speeches around the state, Rhodes has assailed the Democratic legislature for doing nothing about the state's employment problems—a charge that incensed Ocasek and others who angrily deny it.

Rhodes could call the legislature into session himself, but said he didn't want to do that without some assurances it will act. "I don't want them to adjourn 10 minutes after they get there," he said.

Meanwhile, the governor reportedly is on the verge of calling a special session for another reason—to try to force the Senate to act on the recommended ouster of Gregory J. Stebbins as a member of the industrial commission.

Like the job matter, Stebbins has been preferred as a campaign issue by Republicans who claim Senate Democrats want to delay a floor vote on the embattled official until after the election. The Gilligan Administration appointee is a former official of the Ohio AFL-CIO which traditionally gives strong backing to Democratic candidates.

At Rhodes' request, the Senate Judiciary Committee recommended the ouster of Stebbins early last month on grounds of illegal activity which included personal financial gain in the performance of his official duties.

Ocasek said when the legislature adjourned its last session Sept. 17 that Stebbins' removal would be decided at the next regular session slated to start Nov. 9. He said his caucus was divided on the matter, and wanted more time to study it.

The tax incentive legislation before Tablack's committee is designed to lure new industry into Ohio and encourage expansion of existing ones by permitting local governments to grant relief from tangible personal property (equipment and inventories) and real estate taxes.

One proposal would permit expansion of an existing real estate exemption law (the Impacted Cities Act) to include tangible property, while others would abate both types of taxes in a new scheme singling out areas of need based on income levels in designated census tracts, while the third would let designated industries take investment tax credits on new machinery and equipment.

Development Director James A. Duerk told the committee that while taxes may not be the deciding factor for an industry considering an Ohio location, it can be, if all other things, such as labor costs, are equal.

In a number of cases in which such decisions were made, "the differential (between Ohio and other states) was critical," he said.

Duerk said that if a company cannot make a profit in Ohio, it "is going to move out—go someplace else where they can make a profit."

Rhodes Makes Appointments To Panels

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes has named two new members to the Ohio Rail Transportation Authority, leaving only one vacancy on the state board.

The governor named Thomas R. Pulsifer, 33, of Xenia, and William P. Sanzenbacher, 66, of Toledo, to the board.

The five-member board has not had a quorum since three members were forced to resign because of conflicts of interest. Each was an employee of a rail company.

Pulsifer is a teacher in the Xenia City Schools System and is president of the Ohio Association of Railroad Passengers; Sanzenbacher is a trustee of the Ohio Highway Transportation Association, chairman of the Toledo Port Development Committee, a member of the Toledo Port Authority Advisory Council and a member of the board of the Toledo Area Transit Authority.

In other appointments Tuesday, the governor named:

—Sylvester T. DelCorso, 64, Worthington, to the Fire Marshal Advisory Council.

—H. Jack Anastas, 44, Athens, to the board of trustees of the Hocking Technical College.

—Roger D. Stillings, 34, Urbana, to the County Sheriffs Standard Car Marking and Uniform Committee.

Thomas J. Moyer, Rhodes' executive assistant who sat through the committee session, said he was encouraged by the lawmakers' interest in the bills and by the questions they asked.

College Profs Give Carter Debate Edge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter won the second campaign debate by a whisker over President Ford, in the view of five prominent college debate coaches.

The panelists judging the debate for The Associated Press used a scorecard that gives each contestant from one to five points in each of six categories. Two of the coaches called Carter the winner by two points. Two others picked Ford by a single point.

The fifth judge called it a dead heat on the basis of points, but awarded the decision to Carter on a tie-breaker standard used for college debates.

Prof. Melissa Maxcy Wade of Emory University in Atlanta scored the debate 21-21, but awarded the victory to Carter because, she said, he brought up foreign policy problems of secrecy and morality and Ford did not dispose of them.

She gave Ford an edge over Carter in citing evidence for arguments, but found that canceled by what she called his "blunder in suggesting Eastern Europe is not in the sphere of the Soviet Union."

Dr. Donn Parson of the University of Kansas and Prof. William Southworth of the University of Edlands (Calif.), who each called Ford the winner of the first debate, picked Carter this time, 25-23 and 20-18, respectively.

Said Southworth: "Carter came across far more clearly on presenting the idea that Ford was not undertaking strong leadership and comprehensive foreign policy." He also found Carter more confident and less nervous than in the first debate, and Ford "a bit more choppy."

Parson thought Carter "was more forceful than Ford" and "more direct, more aggressive, more forceful compared to last time." He also found "Ford more defensive than I thought Ford would be," and thought Carter effectively argued the problem of secrecy throughout the clash.

Prof. James Unger of Georgetown University, who assisted The AP in setting up the panel, gave Ford a 21-20 edge on the basis of better analysis. He said Carter "failed to relate issues of excessive secrecy and immorality to the practical conduct of that foreign policy."

Unger, who had awarded the lowest scores in the first debate, found "substantial improvement by both speakers" this time and said "both of them indicated they could articulate a leadership position and effectively represent this country in either private negotiations or public forums."

Dr. Barbara O'Connor of California State University, Sacramento, found the debate "much better, much more lively" than last time and picked Ford, 25-24.

She said, "On presidential delivery, the nonverbal communication dimensions are better for Ford: eye contact, leaning forward and looking aggressive. Carter looks kind of meek and is still not as aggressive, not as presidential. The self-assured Southerner doesn't show in the debates."

All the panelists except Professor Wade had decided in favor of Ford on the first debate, although all five scorecards were close.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Young library patrons who visit the Children's Room this week are in for a variety of treats. You'll find both fiction and nonfiction for all ages of children in our latest displays of new books.

"Little Pieces of the West Wind" is a picture book in which delicately-tinted full-page illustrations can be enjoyed all by themselves. The story follows the West Wind's encounters with different people who first take bits from the diminishing gust and later add to the growing breeze.

Most children will quickly identify with the characters in "Six Special Places". Youngsters in this story make an igloo which melts, a tent with blanket and chairs that Mother soon removes, a hideout in bushes that a bulldozer smashes, etc. Finally, they come up with permanent headquarters as the story ends with an unexpected twist. Comical and colorful pictures add to the fun spirit of this story.

Recommended for eight-to-twelve-year-olds is "Hurry Home", a baseball story here just in time for the World Series. More than a sports story, however, the main character finds himself torn between playing in an important game or being with his sick father.

Another story centering on sports is "Ski Racer", a true story of a boy who enters skiing competition and faces some disappointments along the way. Full page color photos illustrate the action, and ski terms are defined throughout the text. Interesting reading for grades 3 up!

Students who enjoy tall tales won't want to miss "Ol' Paul the Mighty Logger", a new edition of what has become a classic in tale-tale circles since its first printing forty years ago. This latest version has the same words, but there are new illustrations and new type.

Finally, junior high students who have read "Below the Root" can become reacquainted with its principals who have reappeared in "and All Between." Fantasy fans should appreciate this latest story which is every bit as well written as its predecessor.

See you soon!

Carmichael Remarks Inflammatory

CINCINNATI (AP) — In 1968, Stokely Carmichael was called too violent to belong to the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee, a group he once headed.

The next year Carmichael— who coined the phrase "black power"—resigned from the Black Panthers, accusing its leadership of collusion with the white power structure.

He moved to Guinea, but is here on a visit organizing his Pan African political movement.

He admits he's changed his tactics since the riot-torn days of the 1960s, but the rhetoric is still highly inflammatory and the goal of that rhetoric is still to bring down the capitalist system of government.

"Everything changes," he admitted in a press conference Wednesday at the University of Cincinnati. "No man can remain stagnant. I have gone through evolutionary changes. I see much clearer today than in the 1960s. I am more knowledgeable about how to achieve my goals."

The goal is still the overthrow of the capitalist system— and the means is still violence. It is, however, a different kind of violence, according to Carmichael.

"It cannot be exploded spontaneously as it was in the 1960s," he said. "It must be channeled along scientific lines."

"We must organize the people and channel their energies toward the destruction of the capitalist ideology."

Before a person can be elected to the U.S. Hall of Fame he must have been in government service for 25 years or more. Elections for entry to the Hall are held every five years.

Tigers Clash In SCOL Battle

It will be a battle of the Cats Friday night when the Circleville Tigers hit the road to Greenfield to meet its Tigers in the annual homecoming clash.

The last time Circleville visited the Greenfield homecoming the Roundtown Tigers suffered a 6-0 setback and coach Larry Cook and his Red and Black gridders are set to do everything in their power to prevent a recurrence of the same thing happening again.

Greenfield which has been in a rebuilding program has shown signs that they are ready to go this season and cannot be taken lightly by anyone.

They are 2-2 for the season and 1-1 in South Central Ohio League play. They lost to Westerville North, 10-0, and Wilmington, 22-12, while beating Springfield Shawnee, 13-12, and defeating Madison Plains, 41-8.

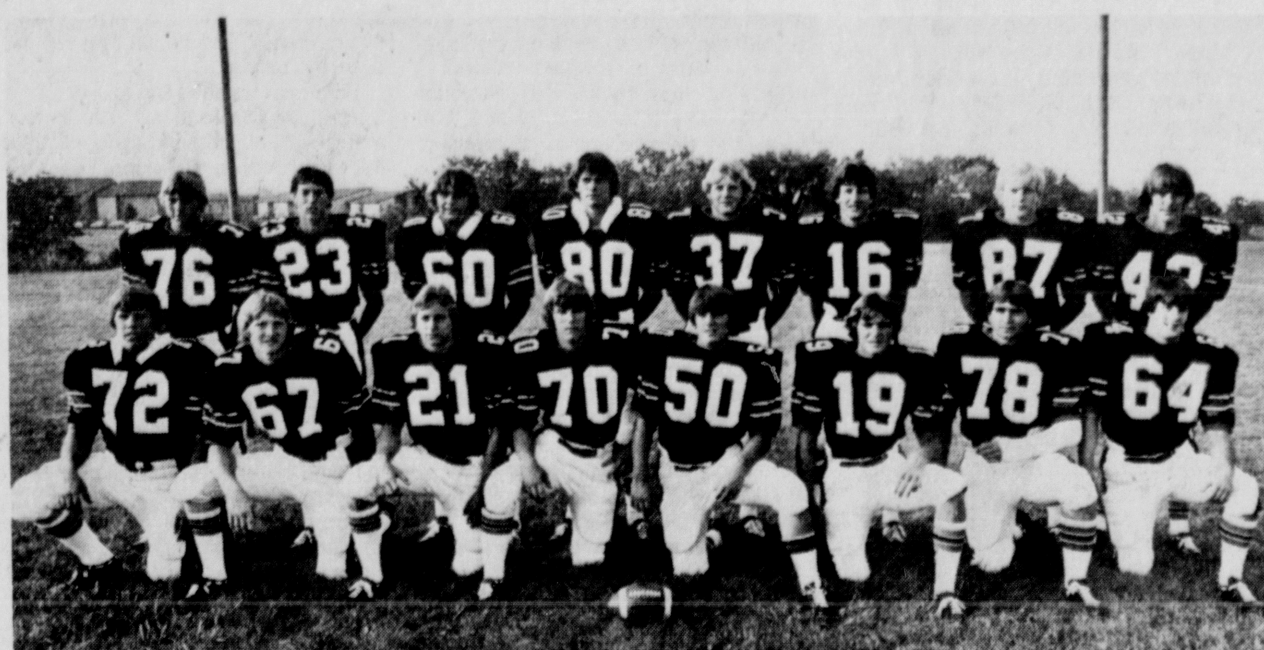

Greenfield will operate from multiple formations such as Circleville will use. These include I backs, slot, pro set with flanker, power I and some unbalanced line formations. They will display a balanced running and passing game.

They have a fine tailback in Tony Anderson and a quarterback, Steve Weaver, who likes to go to Steve Wood and Eric Dunson as his primary targets.

The Purple and Gold will use several defenses including a 5-3-3, 7-diamond and 6-2-3 with a three deep pass zone.

Circleville will be going into the game with three straight wins after suffering an opening loss to Chillicothe. The Tigers will not only be out to avenge their last trip to McClain but to strengthen their bid for a run at the SCOL title.

The Red and Black offense will operate from multiple formations with I backs, wing, slot, flankers, pro set

VETS—Returning lettermen performing for the Circleville Tigers during the 1976 season are: from the left, first row, Paul Heffelfinger, John Hoffman, Mike Brudzinski, Bo Barthelmas, Randy and power I. They will usually be in an I formation.

Their defense will be a 5-2 monster with angles, stunts and blitzes. They will also operate out of a 4-3-4 as the situation dictates.

Coaches awards for Tiger of the week for their play in the Madison Plains game went to: Todd Mancini, offensive lineman; Frank Merrill, offensive back; Earl Stevenson, defensive lineman; Brian Fath, defensive back; Frank Merrill, specialty team; Dave Happeney, practice player.

Happeney, Brian Fath, Art Davis and Earl Stevenson. Second row, Todd Mancini, Frank Merrill, Bryan Price, Tom McGuire, Bill Mogan, Brad Allison, Mark Albright and Dave Marshall.

Joe Leahy, fullback; Mike Brudzinski, wingback; Frank Merrill, tailback.

On defense, it will be: Earl Stevenson, middle guard; Paul Heffelfinger and Bo Barthelmas, tackles; John Hoffman, Tiger end; Mark Albright, standup end; Bryan Price, strongside linebacker; Bill Mogan or Dave Marshall, weakside linebacker;

Brad Allison, Tiger man; Tom McGuire, 5-year halfback; Brian Fath, strong safety; Frank Merrill, middle safety.

Moeller, Newark Lead In Ratings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Men and the computer are thinking alike when it comes to ranking two of Ohio prep football's classifications.

The Ohio High School Athletic Association released its first week of regional rankings Wednesday and Cincinnati Moeller and Newark Catholic were among the leaders.

A day earlier, a panel of sports writers and broadcasters had cast Moeller in the statewide Class AAA lead and Newark Catholic atop the Class A powers in The Associated Press weekly balloting.

Only in Class AA did man and machine differ. Ironton, The AP's Ohio leader in the middle division, could do no better than sixth in its own region in the computer figuring.

The OHSAAs use the computer ratings to determine its postseason playoff cast with each regional leader automatically becoming a semifinalist. Only victories and losses, not margins of decisions, are compiled in the computer ratings.

Joining Moeller in the Class AAA regional leads were Parma Valley Forge, Findlay and Stow Walsh Jesuit. The Class AA regional pacesetters were Girard, Columbus DeSales, Philo and Cincinnati North College Hill.

Newark Catholic's fellow leaders in Class A were Ashtabula St. John and Cleveland Cuyahoga Heights, tied for No. 1 in Region 9; Fostoria St. Wen-delin and West Jefferson. The Ohio High School Athletic Association's computerized football regional leaders this week:

Joe Namath Denies Losing His Touch

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — "Stupid. Stupid. The stupidest thing I ever heard."

Joe Namath, the New York Jets' million-dollar quarterback, reacted testily to the suggestion that his passing skills have become so eroded that besides being unable to scramble he no longer takes the step into the pocket before delivering a pass.

"I've been reading that stuff. It's ridiculous. How are you going to step if there is no place to step?" Namath said.

With the Jets 0-4 for the season and facing O.J. Simpson and the Buffalo Bills in New York's home opener Sunday at Shea Stadium, both Namath and rookie coach Lou Holtz are having to weather an increasing barrage of criticism.

Woody Sees Skullduggery

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Ohio Coach State Woody Hayes is suspicious. He thinks Iowa Coach Bob Commings may be up to skullduggery. Hayes says his players are in much better physical condition than they were a week ago, while Commings says he has injured players "too numerous to mention."

Sniffs Hayes of the reported injuries: "It could be a smokescreen." A sellout crowd of 60,000 is expected for the Big Ten Conference contest beginning at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in Kinnick Stadium.

"We're very concerned about his knee," Commings continues, speaking of his starting quarterback, Butch Caldwell, who suffered a knee sprain against Southern Cal last week. "We hope by Friday we'll know if he can play Saturday."

If he doesn't, Commings will go with last year's starter, Tom McLaughlin.

Ohio State is ranked tenth nationally, but Commings says, "All we're concerned about is getting all our kids healthy. We've got a lot of kids, too numerous to mention, who are all banged up."

"The question is getting them to the point where they perform with proficiency."

Iowa was stopped, 55-0, last week by USC. Ohio State comes off a 10-10 tie with UCLA.

Harry Chosen hit safely in 49 straight games for Mobile, Ala., of the Southern Association in 1945.

Adversity Becomes Success In Football

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sometimes adversity turns into success on Ohio's high school football fields.

Akron Buchtel faced its biggest game of the year so far against Akron Garfield without its No. 1 kicker and quarterback, Phil Manley, sidelined with a thigh injury.

In went No. 2 quarterback Wilbert Curtis to lead the attack and sub kicker Richard Brown booted a 32-yard field goal to hand Buchtel its first loss 9-7.

Yellow Springs punter Bob Howard had a ball sail over his head at his own 39-yard line last week against West Union. Howard picked up the ball at his 10, lofted a pass to Mike Peterson and the play went for a 90-yard touchdown.

Around Ohio: Alliance, at 4-0-0, is off to its best start since the 9-10 power of 1954. Marietta whipped Parkersburg 18-14, West Virginia's fifth-ranked team last week.

Fostoria has watched opponents kick punts into the backs of their own blockers in two games. One resulted in the winning touchdown in a 27-21 decision over Tiffin Calvert.

Lebanon's Herb Nally is 16-for-16 on placements and one-for-one on field goals in the team's 4-0-0 season. Fostoria St. Wendelin's Dave Affholder had 211 rushing yards and three touchdowns against Ottawa Hills last week.

Berne Union's unbeaten streak is up to 25 games. Newcomerstown has 11 straight victories, two short of the school record.

Marion Pleasant, a former Class A

Amanda-Clearcreek Harriers Win

The cross country team of Amanda-Clearcreek picked up five of the first six places to overwhelm visiting Zane Trace, 18-41.

Top finishers for the Aces were: Mike Nye, 1st, 10:51; Dave Purk, 2nd; Dennis Kiser, 3rd; Lou Smith, 5th; Brad Shupe, 6th.

The Aces will host Pickerington in a dual meet Oct. 15.

Milstead Paces Little Tiger Win Over LE

Bobby Milstead scored two touchdowns and a pair of two-point conversions to lead the Circleville eighth grade gridders to a 22-0 win over visiting Logan Elm Wednesday.

Milstead tallied on runs of 20 and 5 yards while Stuart Payne added the third Tiger score on a 15-yard run.

Circleville is now 4-0 and will be at Lancaster Sherman 4:30 p.m. Oct. 19.

Luzinski Discounts Reds' Advantages

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson can talk all he wants about the Reds' post-season experience and their ability to score runs. He can stay silent about his starting pitcher for Saturday's National League playoff opener.

None of it is upsetting the Philadelphia Phillies, says AllStar left-fielder Greg Luzinski.

"It's all part of Sparky's psyche job," said Luzinski. "Well, in this clubhouse it goes out like a grain of salt. He talks about starting a left-hander instead of a right-hander, because Timmy (McCarver) is catching. We won 101 games and we had to beat both sides (right and left)."

"They talk about experience. We have respect for them. They have the best record in baseball (102 victories). They're a good team. But our inexperience is canceled out because we open at home before our fans. It's tough to come in here and play. The fans are behind us. They've waited a long time."

The 25-year-old Luzinski, affectionately known as "The Bull" for his 6-foot-1, 225-pound stature, will hopefully be recovered from a hamstring pull when the Phillies host the Reds Saturday in the opener of the best-of-five-game NL playoffs.

The hamstring which forced him to see limited action the last 10 days of the season is Luzinski's main concern right now, not Anderson's talk.

"It has loosened up considerably," said the Phillies' power hitter. "I've taken it easy this week, haven't really busted out on it. I didn't want to do anything to aggravate it."

Luzinski, who hit .304, slugged 21 homers and batted in 95 runs in the Phillies' dash to a nine-game victory in the NL East, said it is important to the Phillies not to get too keyed up for the playoffs.

"All the pressure is in the playoffs," Luzinski noted. "You have to win here to get into the World Series. The World Series is fun. This is tough."

Despite the pressure that's building for the opener, Luzinski said he'll approach it as just another game.

"We did it through 162 games. We had some tough series with Cincinnati and Pittsburgh. The only difference is that a couple of million will be watching. And this might be the only shot we get at this thing. Who knows? It might be a one-time thing."

"I think we're going to beat 'em. We have all the confidence in the world. We've been through the pressure cooker," the big outfielder added. "We had our lead cut (from 15½ to three games). But we won with one of the largest spreads ever in the Eastern Division. We went all-out all year. We'll do it now."

Playoff Pitching Positions Filled

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
Catfish Hunter, Larry Gura, Steve Carlton and the "Masked Marvel" will be the starting pitchers for Saturday's baseball playoff openers.

The playoff-tested Hunter has been officially tapped to pitch for the New York Yankees and a revengeful Gura has been chosen to go for the Kansas City Royals in the first game of the American League series.

The National League managers, however, are still playing "I've Got A Secret."

Manager Danny Ozark of the Philadelphia Phillies indicates that Carlton will be the Phillies' choice, although he has made no official announcement yet. Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson is pulling out all the psychological stops. He hasn't named anyone yet — and won't until Friday, 24 hours before the NL playoff game in Philadelphia.

"I know right now who it'll be, but I'm not saying," says a mysterious Anderson.

New York's Billy Martin was the first of the four managers to reveal his playoff plans when earlier this week, he selected Hunter, 17-15, and Ed Figueroa, 19-10, as the pitchers for the first two AL games in Kansas City. Either Dock Ellis, 17-8, or Ken Holtzman, 14-11, will pitch in Game No. 3 for the Yankees when the playoffs shift to New York next Tuesday.

Martin, in fact, has been the most talkative of the managers during the week prior to playoff time. On Wednesday, the verbose Martin revealed that Hunter has had a sore arm this year, perhaps explaining his sub-par season. Hunter, who led the Oakland A's to three world championships in the early 1970s, failed to make the 20-victory circle for the first time in six years.

"We decided not to say anything about it during the season," Martin told reporters about Hunter's tortured arm. "I think we said he had something wrong with his leg. But it was not a hamstring as we led you to believe. He had tendonitis in his right arm."

Hunter was given a shot for the pain and pitched admirably in his final three starts at the end of the season, allowing only five runs in 21 innings. On Wednesday he hurled two innings of an intra-squad game without discomfort.

Hunter admits that his arm did give him trouble during the season.

"I didn't get on top of the ball," said the right-hander. "I was short-arming the ball and I couldn't make it stay down."

Gura, a Yankee castoff with bitter feelings toward Martin, is looking forward to pitching against his former

Those were the new-look New York Rangers, and they opened their National Hockey League season with a 6-5 victory over the Minnesota North Stars Wednesday night.

Reds Emphasize Power, Defense

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds, who proved a year ago that pitching isn't everything, try to do it again — this time in shakier shape.

Heading into their fifth National League playoff in seven years, the Reds find themselves in a familiar spot. They figure to go as far as their power and slick defense can take them.

Reds catcher Johnny Bench gives the pitching edge to their playoff foe, the Eastern Division champion Philadelphia Phillies.

"I'd have to favor Philadelphia's starting pitching over ours, because of our question marks," said the nine-time AllStar. "The bullpen too."

If the Reds, baseball's winningest club over the past two years, have a soft spot, it is their sometimes-superb, often-wobbly pitching staff.

The problems started early, with ace left-hander Don Gullett missing most the season with a recurring shoulder problem. Now that Gullett appears ready, veteran right-hander Jack Billingham, 12-10, suffered an arm injury in the season finale that could bite deeply in the Cincinnati's already-thin starting staff.

Players File DH Grievance

NEW YORK (AP) — American League pitchers may still come to bat in the World Series.

The Major League Players Association filed a grievance Wednesday to bar the use in the World Series of designated hitters, claiming the rule is a violation of a new agreement between the baseball players and the owners.

It's not that the players' group is against the designated hitter, according to Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association.

"We did not file the grievance on the merit of the designated hitter rule," Miller told The Associated Press Wednesday night. "But the settlement we reached with the owners states that any rules change must be negotiated with the players. This change was never even discussed with the players. Therefore, it's a contract violation."

National and American League owners have been unable to reach an agreement on the use of a designated hitter. The AL has been using the rule, which allows the manager to use a player exclusively as a hitter while the pitcher doesn't bat, since 1973. The league also has been unsuccessfully trying to have its use approved in the World Series.

Cleveland Browns Given Hard Workout

BEREA, Ohio (AP)—Coach Forrest Gregg can be a rugged taskmaster, and his Cleveland Browns are feeling the brunt of his ill humor this week after three straight losses.

Gregg put the Browns through a hard, 2½-hour practice in the rain Wednesday as preparations began in earnest for the Pittsburgh Steelers this Sunday.

The special teams, including a number of veterans, worked the longest, and everybody finished up with a session on fundamental blocking and rushing the passer.

The best-of-five series opens Saturday with the first two games at Philadelphia, before shifting to Cincinnati Tuesday.

The Reds finished the season with a major league-leading .280 batting average, their highest in 46 years, but failed to produce a 20-game winner for the sixth straight year.

A bullpen that played a key role in last year's world championship has been shaky, almost a one-man force. Rawly Eastwick continued his sensational relief work, winning 11 of 16 decisions, saving 26 games while compiling the best ERA on the club, a 2.06 mark.

Pedro Borbon and Will McEnaney, steady under fire last year, have 3.35 and 4.87 earned run averages and a collective 6-9 record.

Cincinnati relies on the most devastating hitting attack in baseball, one that produced club records in runs batted in, 802; hits, 1599 and an unprecedented seven 10-game winners on the 13-man staff.

Manager Sparky Anderson was forced to start rookie pitchers 50 times, but uncovered a stopper of sorts in the process.

Pat Zachry, a skinny 6-foot-5 right-hander, stepped in to compile a 14-7 record in a bid to win rookie of the year honors. His 2.74 earned run average was best among Cincinnati starters and the tall Texan proved his worth under pressure with five victories over the pitching-rich Los Angeles Dodgers.

Anderson will likely start Gullett, 11-3, or Zachry in the opened against left-hander Steve Carlton, 20-7.

The Phils won the season series seven games to five, outscoring the Reds 62-60, but Cincinnati is quick to point out that Joe Morgan missed most of the early games with assorted injuries.

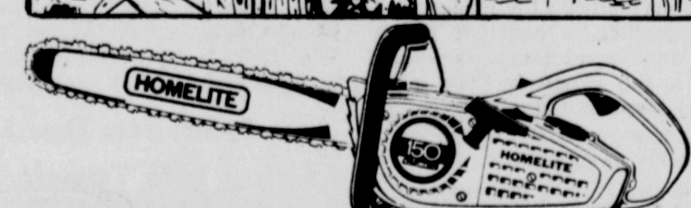

Philadelphia finished with a .272 batting average, second only to Cincinnati in the National League and third in the big leagues behind the Minnesota Twins' .274.

"I don't expect any 1-0 or 2-1 games," said Morgan, one of five .300 hitters in the Cincinnati lineup. "I respect all their pitchers, but I don't think anyone can dominate us."

Week-end Woodsmen prefer
HOMELITE® Chain Saws

You can take care of every out door woodcutting job. Clean up storm damage, cut down dead or unwanted trees, prune and limb, clear brush and saplings. If you've priced a cord or firewood lately, you'll realize how much money you can save with a Homelite chain saw.

Come in this week, we'd be happy to demonstrate one of the new fast-cutting, versatile Homelite chain saws.

KIWANIS SPEAKER — Charles Rideout, left, Berger Hospital administrator, was the guest speaker at the Tuesday meeting of the Ashville Kiwanis Club. Rideout explained the story of Berger Hospital to the club members. Kiwanis member Gene Wilson, right, explained how issue 10 would benefit all residents of Pickaway County.

Campaign Button Business Languishes

BROADVIEW, Ill. (AP) — A man who mints campaign buttons by the millions says business has fallen off sharply, and he pins the blame on new campaign finance laws.

Frank Sitzberger, president of Adcraft Manufacturing Co., said Wednesday that he's turning out far fewer of the colorful discs this fall than in any recent presidential campaign. The problem this year is that both President Ford and Democratic challenger Jimmy Carter accepted tax-supported federal funding for their campaigns, he said in an interview.

"They've only got $28.1 million apiece, and they're going to spend that on television, not on buttons, pamphlets or the other traditional stuff," Sitzberger said.

He said Ford and Carter have ordered one million buttons each from his firm, compared with the 17 million discs that were made for Richard Nixon's 1972 campaign effort.

Sitzberger believes the buttons are valuable because they stimulate political discussions.

"You don't see the button, you don't get the discussion and the issues don't get aired," he said. "It's as simple as that."

Sitzberger, whose firm has been making buttons since 1919, says he considers a few as masterpieces. "I Like Ike," that got him elected," he said of the 1952 button for late President Dwight Eisenhower. "'All The Way With L.B.J.' (1964) was a great one. You can go all the way back to 1898 and I'm for (William Jennings) Bryan and Free Silver."

Sitzberger said local and state candidates still rely heavily on buttons for their advertising.

He added that the button business was much better during this year's primary campaigns "when there were about 12 candidates, (Ronald) Reagan was coming on strong and no one knew who Carter was."

Sitzberger said one of his least favorite buttons was the one that said "WIN" for "Whip Inflation Now."

He said President Ford's announcement of the buttons came on a Tuesday, and by Thursday, Adcraft was churning out six million.

"Then it turned out nobody wanted them," he recalled. "Maybe that's why business is so bad."

PCB Fluid Output Halted By Monsanto

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Monsanto Industrial Chemicals Co. will halt production of PCB insulating fluids next year because of the public's fear of adverse effects from the chemical.

Monsanto will withdraw completely from the market no later than Oct. 31, 1977, said Earle H. Harbison Jr., general manager of the firm's specialty chemicals division.

Harbison said Tuesday the target date would have been sooner, but electrical transformer and capacitor manufacturers have said they would be unable to convert to other materials any earlier.

Monsanto is the only manufacturer of PCB (polychlorinated biphenyl), a stable, fire-resistant chemical.

The Environmental Protection Agency has found that PCBs build up in the environment and are thought to cause reproductive failures, gastric disorders and skin lesions in mammals.

About 300 million pounds of the virtually indestructible chemical have been dumped into landfills, leaked into water supplies and allowed to seep into production sites, the EPA contends.

EPA Administrator Russell E. Train praised Monsanto's decision, terming it "a significant step in dealing with the total problem of PCB contamination."

Dwight Chapin Given New Job

CHICAGO (AP) — Convicted Watergate conspirator Dwight L. Chapin has been hired as president and publisher of the magazine "Success Unlimited."

Chapin, 35, was convicted April 5, 1974, on two counts of lying to a federal grand jury in connection with "dirty tricks" carried out during former President Richard M. Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign. He served eight months in a Lompoc, Calif., minimum security federal penitentiary.

W. Clement Stone, Chicago insurance magnate and contributor to Nixon's campaign, announced Chapin's appointment to head the Chicago-based magazine. Stone helped found it in 1954.

Stone's announcement said the magazine has a circulation of 180,000 and provides "self-help and motivational material and information designed to educate, uplift and improve the lives of its readers."

Candidates Give Jobs Top Biting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Delegates to the Ohio State Building and Construction Trades Council have heard both of the state's major candidates for U.S. Senate list jobs as their top legislative priorities.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum of Cleveland, the Democratic standardbearer, and Republican incumbent Sen. Robert Taft of Cincinnati spoke in separate appearances Wednesday to an estimated 500 representatives of Ohio's construction industry.

New Hubby Not Rich

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — A 38-year-old retired exotic dancer who ran an ad seeking a rich husband says she has gotten married — to a 74-year-old widower whose only income is from Social Security.

But Marcella Mae Collins said Wednesday that Bogar Caldwell, whom she married Oct. 1, met all requirements, despite his lack of wealth.

"I care about him," she said. "I respect him. I think I do love him. He's a strong, marvelous man."

The new Mrs. Caldwell, who used to dance in Chicago, was living with her two children on welfare at Morehead, Ky., when she ran an ad in the Huntington Advertiser reading: "Small Caucasian lady desires rich man to help finish raising her two children."

Caldwell, a retired railroad man, wrote her on Sept. 16, wrote again Sept. 17 when he realized he had forgotten to sign the first letter, and visited her on Sept. 18. Two days later, she said, they decided to get married.

"I don't know what attracted me," Mrs. Caldwell said. "He reminded me a lot of Dad. He's kind, considerate and honest. And we can have a home together and a family like I've always wanted."

The council was expected to decide today whether to make an endorsement in the race which polls throughout the state indicate is close.

Metzenbaum, as he has before other statewide groups, hit at Ohio's Republican-dominated congressional delegation for assertedly allowing Ohio to become 47th among all states in getting back its federal tax dollars.

"Let me go to Washington as your United States senator, and working with (Democratic Sen.) John Glenn, I'll bring back facilities that will make it possible to employ the people you represent because jobs meet our first priority for everyone seated in this room," the Cleveland Democrat said.

Taft had told the construction industry representatives earlier that "there is not a more important issue. Jobs will continue to be my No. 1 priority in the Senate."

Ohio's senior senator listed major projects he has helped obtain for Ohio, and said if reelected "I will continue to work with the leaders of labor to get every federal project and program possible."

He mentioned the planned $5 billion expansion of the nuclear enrichment plant near Portsmouth, a new maritime office in Cleveland, the new tank plant at Lima, the Cuyahoga Valley National Park in northern Ohio, and a national occupational safety and health facility which he assured will be

Fallen Tree Blamed For Mishap

Circleville Police investigated an accident at 11:47 p.m. Wednesday that involved a fallen tree.

According to the report, Steven D. Davis, 18, 410 Brown St., was west bound on E. Main Street, when he saw that a tree had fallen across the roadway approximately 300 feet east of the intersection with Kingston Pike.

Davis' vehicle received a broken windshield and a broken radio antenna. Davis was not injured. Ptl. Mike Eberhard investigated the accident.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): To be avoided: irrational moves, hasty conclusions, misjudgments through carelessness or prejudice. This won't be difficult if you display your usual foresight.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Stellar influences warn against indiscretion, un-conventionality. Stress the conservative - especially in dealing with the opposite sex.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): With your innate ingenuity, you will probably discover more than one novel way of meeting day's demands. Others are competing for identical goals. Push on!

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): There may be a hitch in certain arrangements now - especially those involving travel. Be prepared to improvise.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): A splendid period in which to plan home improvements; also to give serious thought to a property deal.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): A pleasant surprise indicated - possibly the settlement of an outstanding obligation. Romance highlighted, too.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): An "iffy" sort of day, much depending on your initiative and good judgment. You have plenty of planetary backing to carry out worthwhile moves and plans, however.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Influences continue beneficent. Take advantage by pressing on toward lofty objectives. Job and financial interests especially favored.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Tip-top Jupiter influences foster more of the grit and ingenuity that won laurels for you in the past. This will be a good day for innovations.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Don't be tricked by the bizarre. Overactivity also unwise. A well-regulated day will bring achievement, stimulate incentive. Avoid obstinacy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Some unusual activities indicated, but certain tedious matters will require attention nonetheless. Pep them up with one of those ingenious "twists" at which you are so adept.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Some trends changing. Synchronize your activities to accommodate. Curb a tendency to become overly emotional in a relatively unimportant situation.

YOU BORN TODAY are an exceptionally gregarious individual, with great enthusiasm for life and people generally. You have been endowed with outstanding business acumen and are a terrific organizer. You are extremely meticulous in all your undertakings and unusually competent in emergencies. A born leader, unlike many of the Libras, you can be a stalwart in your community, state or country. You enjoy travel, music and the theater and may take up any of these as an avocation if you do not choose one as a career. Birthdate of: John Hay, early Amer. statesman; Elbert Gary, steel magnate.

The first female licensed printer in America was Mrs. Dinah Nuthead, who inherited her husband's business in 1696.

Vote Polls Conflict

NEW YORK (AP) — Two of the big national polls charting the presidential campaign have come up with sharply differing pictures of the race.

The latest Gallup poll gives Democrat Jimmy Carter an 8-point lead, 50-42, while a Yankelovich poll, conducted for Time magazine, indicates a neck-and-neck race, 43-43.

The difference has been clouded somewhat by George Gallup's announcement that his organization's latest report was based on incomplete tabulations and may have to be revised.

But he says any revision will be minor.

Gallup also disclosed that incomplete reports on two earlier polls underestimated the Democratic candidate's strength. He swore off from making any more partial reports between now and election day.

"Henceforth," he said, "we will wait until we have a full sample."

Gallup's latest results were similar to those of Carter's own pollster, Patrick Caddell, who said Sunday that his latest nationwide tally showed Carter leading Ford by 51 to 42 per cent.

Gallup defended his latest figures as "correct," and defended the practice of reporting partial samples, saying pollsters with deadlines have to cut off the tabulations "at some point."

Set Changes In Patronage

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Republican State Chairman Thomas S. Milligan scheduled a news conference today to announce changes in the state's political patronage system.

President Ford has signed a bill banning forced collection of contributions from workers in federally-funded government jobs.

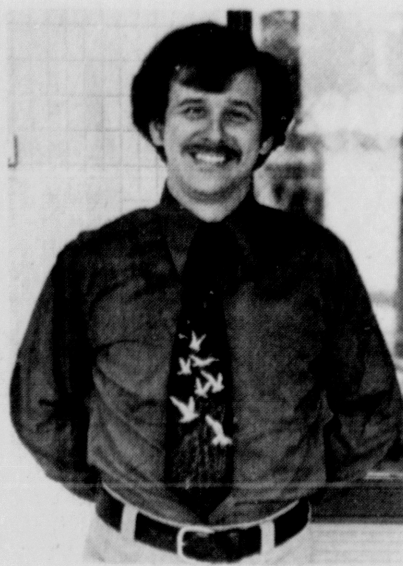

Milligan said Tuesday about 4,000 of 7,200 state patronage workers now contribute to the GOP. Those that don't aren't penalized in any way, he said.

"A political party relies on people giving their time and money," he said. "We motivate people to give based on the fact that if we're ever in a position to help them, we will."

Westfall Welcomes New Teacher

RANDY WILLIAMS

By EMILIE CALDWELL
Randy Williams is Westfall's new sophomore English teacher. He and his wife, Sherry, reside at 367 Edwards Road in Circleville.

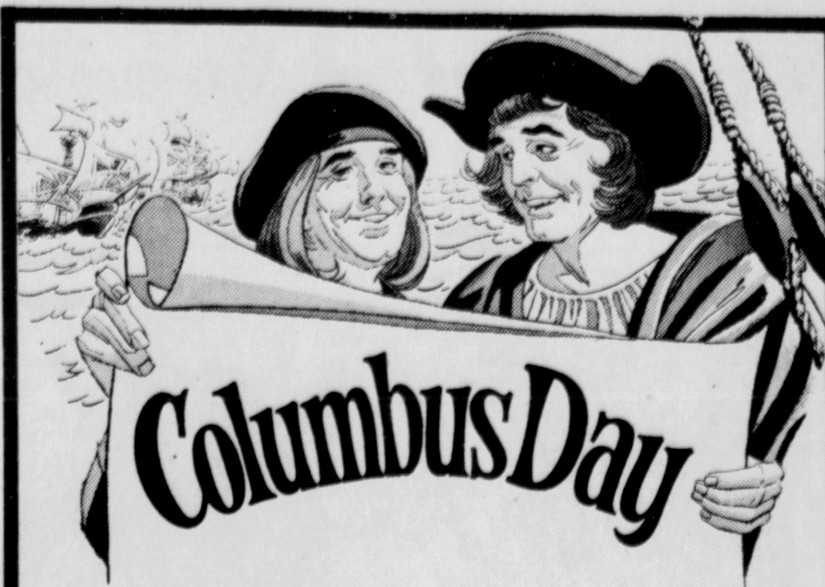

Williams graduated from Rio Grande College in 1971, with a BA in English and is now doing graduate work at Marshall University.

Teaching classes of junior speech, junior writing, and sophomore English, he will also be the freshman basketball coach. He likes people in general, but dislikes people with closed minds.

The personable young man commented that the students, other faculty members, and administration at W.H.S. are friendly and co-operative.

We wish him much happiness and success at Westfall.

Candidates Speak At Mock Election

CANDIDATES — Candidates speaking at the Logan Elm High School mock election Wednesday are, standing from the left: Gene Long, candidate for prosecuting attorney; John Bost, candidate for sheriff; Roger Koch and Paul Schein, candidate for county commissioner; Dwight Radcliff, candidate for sheriff; James Kingsley, candidate for prosecuting attorney. Helping to organize the program were, seated, from the left: Bob Bensonhaver, Mike Davis and Dan DeLong.

Wednesday, the social studies department of Logan Elm High School conducted a mock election using the same methods and procedures that will be used in the nationwide general election on November 2, 1976.

Before voting in the mock election, the student body was fortunate to meet the candidates for county commissioner, county sheriff, and county prosecuting attorney and to hear their views on what the office they are seeking should do for the public and why the candidates felt they were qualified for the position.

The candidates present were: Carl Schein and Roger Koch for county commissioner; Dwight Radcliff and John Bost for county sheriff; James Kingsley and Gene Long for county prosecuting attorney.

Aiding Dan DeLong, government teacher, in setting up this program were Mike Davis, student coordinator, and Bob Bensonhaver. This Debate Sets . . .

A senior European diplomat said of Ford's assertion, "It's crazy. If it isn't, what's the North Atlantic alliance (NATO) all about?"

During another exchange, Ford criticized the Democratic Congress for failure to disclose the names of companies that had participated in the Arab boycott against Israel and said he had directed the Commerce Department to release the names.

"The Congress failed to do it, and we intend to do it," said Ford.

However, a Commerce Department spokesman said he thought the disclosures would be of firms that cooperate with the boycott in the future rather than the names of firms that had done so in the past.

Democratic members of Congress quickly pointed out that the Ford administration vigorously opposed antiboycott provisions in the tax bill enacted this session and recently signed by the President.

U.S. corporations are required by law to report to the Commerce Department any demands from Arab countries to participate in the boycott against Israel as a condition of doing business in the Arab world.

When asked for his position on the Panama Canal, Carter said he might be willing to share more fully the responsibilities for administering the Canal with the Panamanian government, to pay higher fees for movement of goods through the Canal Zone and to reduce the U.S. military establishment in the zone.

"But I would not relinquish practical control of the Panama Canal Zone any time in the foreseeable future," he added.

The Panamanian ambassador to the United States reacted by saying Carter "has raised the price tag" for a new treaty between the two countries.

"If he (Carter) is elected it would be up to the people and government of Panama to decide if they are prepared to pay that price. We would have liked President Ford to be more definite and precise in his own intentions," said Ambassador Nicolas Gonzalez-Revilla.

Ford said the United States "must and will maintain complete access to the Panama Canal."

On the arms limitation talks with the Soviets, Ford said he "met just last week with the foreign minister of the Soviet Union, and he indicated to me that the Soviet Union is interested in narrowing the differences and making a realistic and a sound compromise."

Ford added that if the two countries part of the program was a very worthwhile educational experience because the students got a first-hand look at the candidates for local offices and the two party political process in action.

Students in grades 9-12 voluntarily went through a registration program earlier in the week in order to participate in the election. The students were then allowed to vote for the same candidates and issues that we as voters will be voting on November 2. The students used voting machines supplied by the Pickaway County Board of Elections.

The Social Studies Department felt this event was highly successful because this type of exercise helps the students better understand the entire registration and voting procedure and greatly helps the students overcome the fear that so many people unfortunately have of participating in the election process.

are unable to reach agreement before the SALT I treaty expires Oct. 3, 1977, "you will unleash again an all-out arms race with the potential of a nuclear holocaust of unbelievable dimensions."

Carter retorted that during Ford's two years in the White House "there has been absolutely no progress made toward a new SALT agreement."

On other issues:

—Carter accused Ford of lacking leadership and abdicating control over foreign policy to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. On foreign policy matters, Carter said, Kissinger has been "president of this country."

—Ford countered that under his leadership "America is strong, America is free, America is respected ... America is at peace."

—Ford said that a year ago Carter "indicated he wanted to cut the defense budget by $15 billion." The President said his opponent has since talked about smaller cuts.

—Carter said he has never advocated cutting $15 billion from the defense budget, and he accused Ford of making "a political football" out of the military appropriation.

—Carter said Ford and Kissinger have excluded the American people from the formulation of foreign policy. "Every time we've made a serious mistake in foreign affairs it's been because the American people have been excluded from the process," he said.

—Asked what he would do in the event of another oil embargo, Carter said, "I would consider that not a military but an economic declaration of war. And I would respond instantly and in kind. I would not ship that Arab country anything: no weapons, no spare parts for weapons, no oil drilling rigs, no oil pipe, no nothing."

Chiropractor Joins Local Center's Staff

DR. S. D. BOIKE

Dr. S. D. Boike of Hillard, has become associated with Dr. H. H. Shuttlesworth at the Circleville Chiropractic Center, 122 W. Franklin St.

Dr. Boike received his pre-professional training at Wilmington College and received his doctors degree from Palmer College of Chiropractic in 1969. Since his graduation he has been in private specific chiropractic practice in Hillard and has participated in specific upper cervical research work with Dr. Ralph Gregory known as "Atlas Subluxation Complex Syndrome." He has attained a proficiency status in this work and has been appointed to their teaching staff as well.

He and his wife presently live in Columbus with their four children. Mrs. Boike is a math teacher in the Southwestern City School District.

Jury Returns Guilty Verdict

Tuesday a Municipal Court jury of eight returned a guilty verdict against Randy Michael Horn charged with the theft of a carburetor from Deercreek Auto Parts. The jury was seated Tuesday morning and heard evidence presented by the City of Circleville and by the defendant.

Mike Clark of Deercreek Auto Parts was an eye witness to the incident and testified for the State of Ohio. Pickaway County Deputy Don Hamilton, arresting officer, also testified. A co-defendant testified for the defense.

After 30 minutes of deliberation, the jury returned its verdict.

The City of Circleville was represented by local attorney James R. Kingsley. The defendant was represented by Columbus attorney Richard D. Colby.

The jury found Horn guilty, with $100 fine, $12 costs, fine suspended, and five days in the Pickaway County Jail, with credit for two days served.

The jurors seated included Kenneth Reid, Harriet Morrison, Raymond Seyfang, Emerson Spicer, Edward Hart, Mary Lou Phifer, Benjamin Grace and Mary O'Donnell.

Registration Fees Distributed

State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson's office reported the third advance distribution of 1976 state motor vehicle registration fees totaling $4,581,877 to Ohio counties, cities, townships and villages today. Pickaway County received $702.18.

Of the amount, $722,008 went to 60 counties and/or their municipalities that imposed an additional $5 levy on each set of license plates sold in 1976.

The counties received 47 per cent of the remainder, or $1,814,138.43, while the municipalities shared 34 per cent, or $1,312,355.46, on the basis of vehicle count.

Under the complicated formula by which motor vehicle license money is apportioned to the local political subdivisions the counties received most of the funds, Ferguson said.

The distribution of license fees is based on a formula involving the number of motor vehicles registered within a county or municipality, number of miles and townships within a county and a big county-small county equalization factor.

The other $733,375.11 was distributed to the counties and townships on a nine per cent county road mileage basis, a five per cent county equalization factor and a five per cent township road mileage basis.

Ferguson said under these three formulas the counties shared $347,388.21 on the nine per cent basis and $192,993.45 (each county receiving $2,218.32) in five per cent equalization funds. The 1,320 townships shared in a total of $192,993.45 based on the number of road miles within their borders.

Carter Proves . . .

time convincing Polish, Czech or Hungarian-Americans that their ancestral homelands are not dominated by the Soviet Union.

Ford said he thought he had done all right in the debate, said he had been specific and Carter had dealt in generalities.

It was a point Ford raised repeatedly during the debate, saying that Carter spoke generalities and lacked information.

Carter's basic theme, in the debate as on the campaign trail, was that Ford has failed as a leader, and that administration policy has spurned morality and the principles of American democracy.

Even when he seemed in general agreement with Ford, Carter pressed the attack. Both candidates said they would move for normalization of relations with China, but without yielding the independence and freedom of Taiwan. Carter said, however, that Ford had "pretty well ... frittered away" a great opportunity to improve ties with Peking.

Ford said the United States must and will maintain full access to the Panama Canal. Carter said he would not relinquish practical control of the Panama Canal Zone in the foreseeable future — but would continue negotiations with Panama.

When Ford spoke of possible progress toward a SALT agreement, Carter acidly remarked that the President apparently had just learned that the current accord will expire in a year. "Mr. Ford acts like he's running for president for the first time," Carter said. And, in fact, he is.

By the time the debaters got to the Arab boycott, there seemed to be some hyperbole on both sides. Carter said the administration had proceeded disgracefully, and was permitting foreign nations to circumvent the Bill of Rights.

Ford then claimed credit for legislation to deny tax advantages to countries that have cooperated with the boycott, although the administration actually opposed the measure as too restrictive. He also said the administration had pressed for legislation to take strong and effective action against companies that cooperate with the boycott. Legislation to penalize such companies was shelved at the insistence of a Republican senator acting in behalf of the administration.

Of such items are debate points scored. But in a televised political debate, style may, after all, be the major point. And Carter changed his.

"I think in the first debate I deferred too much to him because he was President," Carter said. This time, Carter deferred to Ford not at all.

Junior High Sets Open House

Circleville Junior High School will be having its annual open house Oct. 18 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. A registration period will be held first followed by all parents and teachers meeting in the school auditorium.

The State Band will play, then the teachers will be introduced by the principal, Walter Owens.

Visitations will then be held in each of the classrooms until 9 p.m. at which time a social hour will be held in the cafeteria.
